TO THE CITIZENS OF SYDNEY AND THE BENEVOLENT OF NEW SOUTH WALES.
The inhabitants of Windsor and the Hawkesbury district appeal once more to you for assistance. We are involved in ruin—ruin, wide-spread and devastating, exceeding in many degrees the calamity of June, 1864.
The flood has reached 15 feet 6 inches higher than that of "the great flood," and 64 feet above the ordinary level of the river. Some 500 houses are under water; lives have been lost; houses, cattle, hay, corn, poultry, furniture, &c., either destroyed or swept away.
The loss is incalculable. The people are beggared. The town of Windsor has suffered much, only a small part barely escaping; the inhabitants, with hundreds of others, who had sought refuge, have been for some days huddled together on a narrow belt of land, hourly expecting the waters to cover the whole township.
Hundreds of men, women, and children are "houseless, homeless, and hungry," and but for help afforded by neighbours must have perished.
The distress extends some fifty miles down the river, and a steamer has been this morning dispatched to their aid, with flour, bread, and beef.
A little help has been kindly rendered by Government, but looking at the number of sufferers the committee fear that unless liberal help comes at once, their means will be totally inadequate to meet the emergency.
Signed on behalf of the Flood Relief Committee.
Contributions in money, flour, beef, bread, blankets, and clothing, are earnestly intreated.
WILLIAM DEAN, Hon. Sec.
N. NUGENT, Esq., Bank of New South Wales, Windsor, has kindly consented to act as Treasurer.
P.S.—The committee return thanks to Mr. Pritchard, of Sydney, for a large supply of bread and biscuit.

TO THE ELECTORS OF ORANGE.—GENTLEMEN,—The resignation of your late member (Mr. W. Forlonge) has again placed in your hands the privilege of electing a representative to Parliament, and in accepting the invitation with which you have honoured me to become a candidate for your suffrages, I feel that it is incumbent on me to make known to you, without reserve, the principles which will guide me, if I have the honour to be returned as your representative.
In a hurried address of this nature, it is impossible to give you more than a brief outline of my political principles, but I hope before the day of nomination to meet you in various parts of your electorate, when I shall have every opportunity of making them known to you.
Meanwhile I may state, that all my convictions are in favour of free trade. Nothing but absolute necessity would induce me to vote for the imposition or retention of fiscal duties.
I do not consider that State-aid is necessary to religion as a principle; yet I would strenuously support any measure having for its object the maintenance of ministers of religion in the outlying districts, where the population is too sparse, or otherwise unable to maintain them. In like manner I would support any measure for the maintenance of Denominational schools, whose faith and teaching may be considered antagonistic to the present National system of education.
I am strongly in favour of "Free Selection" in its widest sense, although I consider many of the provisions of the Land Act of 1861 require amending or repealing. The Act now places monstrous powers in the hands of a Minister, who, it may be, by granting "WATER RESERVES" in favoured localities, or by raising vexatious delays, can defeat the best intentions of the framers of the Act, and ruin both the free-selector and the pastoral tenant. I pledge myself, if returned, to do all in my power to remove the existing drawbacks to the efficient working of our land laws.
Regarding, as I do, the great importance of the Western districts, my best energies will be devoted to the extension of the Great Western Railway, so that the mineral, agricultural, commercial, and pastoral interests may be fostered and developed.
Municipal institutions should be established wherever the population is sufficiently numerous. I am aware that many of the provisions of the Municipal Act are vague and unsatisfactory. To remedy these my best attention will be given.
On the various and important questions which may come under consideration, such, for instance, as Administrative Reform, Postal Arrangements, &c., &c., I will defer till I meet you.
I remain, Gentlemen, your most obedient servant,
B. CHAS. FLIDE.

THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.
BLAIR'S GOUT and RHEUMATIC PILLS.
This preparation is one of the benefits which the science of modern chemistry has conferred upon mankind, for during the first twenty years of the present century to speak of a cure for the Gout was considered a romance; but now the efficacy and safety of this medicine is so fully demonstrated by unsolicited testimonials from persons in every rank of life, that public opinion proclaims this as one of the most important discoveries of the present age.
These pills require no restraint of diet or confinement during their use, and are certain to prevent the disease attacking any vital part.
They can be relied upon as the most safe and effectual remedy ever offered the public, and have been universally used in Europe and America for many years for the above complaints.
Her Majesty's Commissioners have authorised the name and address of "THOMAS PROUT, No. 229, Strand, London," to be impressed upon the Government stamp affixed to each box of the genuine medicine.
Sold in England at 1s 1½d and 2s 9d per box, or obtained through any Chemist or Medicine Vendor throughout the Australian Colonies.

NEW AND MOST VALUABLE MEDICINES For hitherto intractable and incurable diseases.
No more Cod Liver Oil.
GRIMAULT SYRUP OF IODIZED HORSE RADISH.
Prepared by Grimault and Co., Chemists of Paris, according to the certificates of the physicians of the Paris hospitals, detailed in the printed directions, and with the approbation of several academies, this Syrup is employed with the greatest success, in place of Cod Liver Oil, to which it is infinitely superior. It cures diseases of the chest, scrofula, lymphatic disorders, green sickness, muscular atony, and loss of appetite. It regenerates the constitution by purifying the blood, and is, in a word, the most powerful depurative known. It never fatigues the stomach and bowels like Iodide of Potassium and the Iodide of Iron, and is administered with the greatest efficacy to young children subject to humours or obstruction of the glands. Dr. Cazenave of Saint Louis Hospital, Paris, recommends it particularly in diseases of the skin, to be taken with his Pills mentioned above. This Syrup of Iodized Horse Radish is a capital adjunct to Dr. Leras's Phosphate of Iron.

DR. BURIN DU BUISSON'S DIGESTIVE LOZENGES AND POWDERS OF THE ALKALINE LACTATES.
The alkaline lactates exercise the most beneficial influence over the derangements of digestion, either by their peculiar action on the mucous membrane of the stomach, or by affording to the latter through their combination with the saliva to the gastric juice, a supply of lactic acid which all English, French, and other physiologists admit to be an essential principle of digestion. For the information of those who may be without medical advice, it may be stated here that the symptoms of impaired digestion are—Headache, pain in the forehead, hemicrania, gastritis, gastralgia, heartburn, wind in the stomach and bowels, loss of appetite, emaciation, &c. All these soon disappear under the action of the Alkaline Lactates, which may be always had in lozenges or powders.

DR. LERAS'S PHOSPHATE OF IRON.
This new ferruginous medicine contains the elements of the blood and bones, and iron in a liquid state. It is different from all hitherto offered to the public, is liquid, colourless, and tasteless. It speedily cures chlorosis, pains in the stomach, difficult digestion, dysmenorrhoea, anemia, and advantageously supersedes Carbonate of Iron, Iron reduced by Hydrogen, Lactate of Iron, the Pills of Potassic-tartrate of Iron and Iodide of Iron.
The majority of the Academies of Medicine of Paris, recommend the Phosphate of Iron to ladies of delicate constitution suffering from anemia, and all other persons fatigued from over anxiety, nervous emotions, overwork, general debility, and poorness of blood.
It is the only preparation which never causes constipation, and can be borne by the most delicate stomachs. It is the best adjunct to the Syrup of Iodized Horseradish and Royal Elixir of Yellow Peruvian Bark.
DR. CAZENAVE'S VEGETABLE PILLS.
Superior to all other pills. A trial would be their best recommendation. Whenever a purgative is required for bilious and pituitous attacks, these may be safely used, because they cause neither nausea nor colic, and may be taken as digestives at meal or bed time.
GENERAL DEPOT: In Paris, at Grimault et Cie., 45, Rue Richelieu; in Sydney, at Row's Drug Stores Pitt-street.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the Inventor off Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—See THE TIMES, July 13, 1864.

The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in cholera was Chlorodyne.—See LANCET, December 31, 1864.
Extract from MEDICAL TIMES, January 12, 1866,—"Is prescribed by scores of orthodox medical practitioners. Of course it would not be thus singularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place.'"

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sir,—In your date June 26th, 1867, I read the account of the late gale at Wollongong, in which I have been found great fault with, also my crew, relating to the loss of pilot and Margaret, ketch, in which it appears, that it was the only thing in the way. The Nowra boat was the first boat on the look out for the pilot. She went in the proper direction to pick up any that could come out of her. The pilot's son, belonging to the Trondale, hailed her, and wished to be put on shore, which was done, taking the boat off her look out, or the pilot must have been picked up before he was. I am quite surprised at the report of the master of the Margaret:—If this had been done, and that had been done, his vessel would have been saved: but had he run her further into the port, rounded the breakwater closer, made sail instead of putting his helm hard-a-starboard, and hauling his staysail down, which left her rolling in the mouth far too far to the westward, she would have been safe. As for the opinion of all land-lubbers, I think little of. How was it that they did not man a boat which lay close to the steps, with oars in her, instead of running along the shore like madmen? Had there been such a thing as a spare line on board the Nowra, I should have had it in the boat, with one end fast on shore. I have been thirty years at sea, and in the habit of running to Wollongong for the last ten years.

SATURDAY, JUNE 29, 1867.

After the duties of humanity are performed towards the sufferers by the flood, the question must arise what is the province of the Government in regard to the prevention of similar mischief hereafter. Of course, it is absurd to expect that we have seen the last of these visitations, or that they will occur in diminished power. As the country is cleared and the cover removed which formerly resisted for a time the accumulation of rain upon the surface; as the land is trodden down and the wild grass disappears, the water will collect with increased rapidity at the gorges, and descend with sweeping violence to the valleys below. A narrow escape only has preserved the unfortunate for the most part from threatened death. The losses they have experienced are probably only small in comparison with such as may be hereafter accumulated. The country will have the same interest, the same sympathies, but with the increase of such necessities there will be a diminution of comparative power. We fear also that, wearied with calamities foreseen and unprovided for, there will be less disposition to tax the industry of those who expose society to any such claims. The cause of occupation is clear. Land of the finest quality attracts a population who, from a small extent of ground, pay a large rental, with the expectation of reaping large harvests. From the accidents to which they are exposed there is great discouragement to the erection of permanent dwellings. There is a disposition therefore in many cases to be content with most miserable huts. Many of the houses even in some of the townships are a disgrace to be seen. On the flat land, close to the soil, almost without foundations, these miserable apologies for dwellings are reared of the most frail materials. In these places, people who have either lost the habits of civilisation or never possessed them, are content to live—if it may be called life. The spirit of industry, of course, must be chilled under such circumstances. The stimulus of example is in a great measure lost. Those places which, considering the generations which have occupied them, ought now to exhibit all the freshness and completeness of well-built country towns, are still unsightly and dreary.

The question, however, for society presents itself in a very serious form. We do not ask whether it is right to encourage contributions to alleviate sorrows such as have befallen many of our fellow colonists, because the heart anticipates the intellect, and indeed almost suppresses the misgivings. People feel that something must be done, and they yield to this impulse. But even under the impulses of sympathy, without regard to any principles of political economy, the question may be raised whether men are entitled to expose their families to such disasters, and the lives which they hold under their power to such danger. We read of families being swept away; of women and children lingering for hours upon the housetops; of some having no covering, no food, no means of subsistence. The secondary effects of these disasters upon life are even more destructive than the direct ones. Many feel long the consequences of such a flood in their enfeebled and declining health, and the diseases they have contracted will never leave them until they have completed their deadly course. Is it right for society to allow such spectacles to be repeated from one year to another without offering any obstacle, and without demanding any precaution? It is assumed, indeed, and mostly with truth, that the protection by each man of his own life is the best security, and that the affections which ought to shield the women and children are more potent than all the vigilance and energy of laws. But these general maxims, true and precious as they are, do not prevent the fact that from stupidity, incaution, indolence, and love of hazard shewn by so many, there is a continual imperilling of life, and that by causes which can be traced to wilfulness and folly. Thus society is deprived of its members, and many are hurried to an untimely grave.

Is anything to be done? Is this to go on continually? Are we to wait for a more terrible visitation, such as may indeed dispose of the question in reference to all the present occupiers of low lands lying between the country whence these waters flow? The interest of landlords, of course, terminates with the acquisition of their rent. That interest is protected if, from the benevolence of the public, there is an effort made to replace the property of those who have suffered by misfortune. Their property becomes liable for their debts, and if it be not directly appropriated by the landlord it still forms a part of that fund out of which the system of cultivation is conducted, and from which he derives his income. It is not reasonable therefore, to expect any effective movement on the part of persons so directly interested. But it is in the power of the Government to take care that dwellings shall not be erected, and that where they exist, and are of a miserable character, they shall be demolished in all those places where danger has been distinctly ascertained, and where these calamities may occur. We should consider that persons putting their families in jeopardy where the danger was clear and known would be responsible for the consequences; that homicide would be the verdict of a jury looking to all the causes in their known character and connection with the result. If not followed instantly by the consequences to be anticipated for it, this will not relieve those who adopt that course from the guilt of wilful destruction. We have the power to ascertain where danger exists, and not only to warn, but to take precautions for its removal. A suggestion made by one of our correspondents that an ark should be prepared, looks so antediluvian that we scarcely suppose it will be seriously adopted. The fact is, the high mountains were the refuge from the Deluge, and the ark would have been entirely unnecessary and misplaced, if there had been any retreat discoverable within the circle of the flood. These laborious contrivances to combat such a danger are such as may be planned in the closet, but can never be executed in fact. What we recommend is, that an inquiry should be made as to the means by which safety can be assured to the inhabitants of those parts of the country subject to flood, with a view to embankments or change of abode, or any other of those plans which may rescue so large a portion of the population from habitual danger. The whole colony is interested directly and indirectly in the result of these floods; and God only knows to what extent they may some time or other overwhelm all interests by their disastrous consequences.

A Parliamentary inquiry into the whole subject is desirable. We want to know precisely what prospects are before us—what demands are likely to be made, and how they can be obviated. Can the calamities resulting from floods be met without requiring that frequent appeal to public sympathy which it is so desirable to prevent—where those engaged in a particular employment, as farming, who are exposed universally to rare but serious losses, find a small insurance is sufficient to cover them. In one year they happen in Lancashire, in another in Devonshire, in another in Cornwall. There are long intervals before the turn of each locality comes round to suffer its proportion of loss. Thus a small fund can be raised by general insurance. But where mischief like that of the recent floods spreads over particular localities defined beforehand, and where the calamity is all but universal, it is clear that it is not in this form we may expect a provision. The accumulation of a fund by an annual tax upon the whole district exposed to these calamities, would be one possible form of provision. In case of any enormous losses, it might be possible to indemnify the sufferers by anticipating the fund. The liability to floods in the localities in which they uniformly and simultaneously occur would render any plan of provision insufficient, unless backed by some independent resources. Whether this comes within the province of the Government or not, is a question which requires much consideration and discussion; but certainly it is within the duty of Government to see that there is no deliberate risk of human life, no wilful exposure of those who are entitled to public protection, to dangers which are sure to recur, and which so often are fatal.

The representatives of several trades' unions have already given evidence before the Royal Commission. On the whole, this evidence has been given frankly, the secretaries stating that they had nothing to conceal either as to their policy or their tactics. But in some few instances unwilling answers have been extorted by cross-examination.

The evidence thus adduced will tend to make the public generally more familiar with the labour organisations of the country, and will make it more than ever clear that the best interests of the State are identified with a good understanding between employers and employed. For never were the latter so well organised, and never were the former so pressed to suspend their mutual competition, and to combine in self-defence.

The amalgamated engineers for instance are said to have no less than £140,000 in hand, all carefully invested, and they add to it at the rate of about £30,000 a year. Their witness says that they do not like strikes, and that they have not had one for several years. But their last strike only cost them £40,000, so that they have now three times the money in hand that they had then. The knowledge of this fact of course gives them great strength in making their demands, and as naturally makes the employers cautious. Other unions are also similarly strengthening themselves to be ready for a contest whenever they may think their interests require one. Mr. Cobden used to say that the standing armies of Europe were a great provocation to war,—that the readiness for a fight made nations very apt to take offence. Strikes have been described as social civil wars, and the reserved funds of the unions represent the preparation afforded by standing armies. Trade unions that know they are in a position to stand out for a long strike, are more likely to give and take offence than those that have no such resource. No other unions are in such a strong position as that of the amalgamated engineers; but the smaller and weaker combinations are endeavouring to emulate the success of their wealthier fellow-workmen, and to obtain an accumulated fund that should be a defence if they are attacked, and a strength if they feel disposed to strike the first blow. A very large number of workmen still remain non-unionists, but there is an evident tendency towards the diminution of their number, and this tendency is more strongly marked year by year. Not only are workmen attracted to the unions by the advantages they offer, but they are subjected to powerful persuaders of another kind. The witnesses denied that there was any physical compulsion, but they admitted that the influence of the unions was used to get work by preference for union men, and that non-unionists were often "sent to coventry" when working on the same job with unionists. They were not insulted, or hustled, or persecuted, only they were not spoken to. On men who have not very strong reasons for standing aloof this process generally has its intended effect. It is to be observed, however, that in using this social influence the unionists are only applying a principle that has been long applied among other orders. If a member of any class of society does what the rest of his class consider detrimental to the interests of the "order," he is generally made to feel the dislike his individualism has engendered. There are other unions in the world besides trade unions—unions that exist practically without any formal recognition—unions that have their well-understood rules, and whose influences prove very potent over their members. The trade unions only give a formal and rigid development to a principle that has long been known to society at large.

There is one point on which the views of masters and men seem quite irreconcileable. Employers always like piece-work. Their experience is to the effect that day work always tends towards a smaller and smaller quantity of work, and that only the closest vigilance can prevent this, while in some cases the necessary oversight is not practicable. They also contend that the principle is intrinsically a fair one, inasmuch as what they buy is not time but work, and that also is what they sell. It is impossible to assume always such a high moral character on the part of the workman as to feel confident that he will do the fair day's work for the fair day's wage, if the work cannot be measured by the piece. Experience of human nature does not justify so general an assumption as applicable to the whole body of workmen. The principle, therefore, of "payment for results" (a principle which Mr. Lowe has applied to the teachers in the Government schools) is considered the only satisfactory and self-acting principle by which the value of a day's labour can be tested. There are many occupations in which the principle cannot possibly be applied, and where the employer has to trust to his own vigilance or the honesty of his workmen to do him justice. But where it can be applied, employers universally like it. They regard it as a protection against being cheated. On the other hand the evidence shows that the workmen as universally dislike it. Their policy, as well developed by their unions, and as frankly confessed by themselves, is not only to fix the rate of wage, but also the maximum of a day's work. They define a day's work as "what a skilled man ought to receive." But, in practice, this vague phrase of "a fair day's work" is found to descend rather towards the limit of an inferior workman's capability than to rise to the possibility of a good workman's capability. What may be a hard day's work for a bad hand, may be a very easy day's work for a good hand; and while the masters like to excite emulation and competition the men discourage it. The former complain that the unions deteriorate the standard of a day's work. The latter complain that to set the men in rivalry with one another subjects them to an excessive strain, and tends practically towards a reduction of wages. They dislike being put under the screw in this way, and insist on the day's service being calculated on an average. But, though the real reason of their dislike to piece-work is practically admitted, and would be obvious if it were not, the objection they put most prominently forward is that piece-work tends to bad work. That it does so, except where it can be checked, is not only very likely, but almost certain. The bricklayers particularly give evidence as to the scamping way in which both private and public buildings are being put together under the operation of the piece-work system. Public works now in progress were referred to as being constructed in a roguish and rotten style. The statements thus made are important, and will doubtless lead to inquiry which will result in their verification or disproof. But at the same time the bricklayers will hardly get credit for their statement, that their principal objection to piece-work is the highly virtuous one of a dislike to bad work.

It is obvious that the objections respectively made by masters and men do not answer each other. The former say that day-work is defective in quantity, the latter say that piece-work is defective in quality. Both may be true, and yet they do not reply to each other. It still remains for the men to show how day-work is to be prevented from being deficient in quantity, and for the masters to show how piece-work is to be effectually prevented from being deficient in quality. Vigilant oversight is the only apparent remedy, and in the case of a public building the architect or clerk of the works ought to be sufficiently watchful to see that there is no scamping. At the same time nothing can ever eliminate altogether the difference of interest between the wage giver and the wage getter, when it is the aim of one to get the maximum work for his money, and the aim of the other to get the maximum money for his work.

Industrial League.—This league held a weekly meeting last evening, at the Temperance Hall, but the business was entirely of a routine character, chiefly relating to the appointment of local committees. Mr. J. Coleman was in the chair.

Greenoakes, Arlington Point.—We have been requested to state that Mr. Mort's Picture Gallery will be opened to the public this day.

Floods Relief Fund.—A meeting of the committee of the Floods Relief Fund was held, pursuant to advertisement, yesterday morning, at the Sydney Exchange, at 11 o'clock, the Hon. George Allen in the chair. There was a very numerous attendance. The minutes of the two previous meetings were first read and confirmed. The acting secretary then read several letters to the committee. Mr. C. W. Caldwell, of 278, Pitt-street, offered the use of one of his stores as a receiving house for contributions of clothing and blankets, &c., for the sufferers by the late floods, and enclosed his subscription. Mr. M'Mahon, in a letter, suggested the desirability of having some general depot for the reception of old clothing for the use of the sufferers. On some question being raised as to a musical entertainment, the Rev. Thomas Smith moved the following resolution:—"That the committee consider it undesirable for the patronage of the committee to be given to any entertainment." He thought it would be objectionable for the committee to be called upon to undertake any responsibility in reference to some of these proposed entertainments. At the suggestion of Dr. Wilson, this resolution was however, modified, and ultimately passed in the following form:—"That the committee would be glad to receive contributions from persons giving entertainments on behalf of the sufferers from the late floods, but decline to take any responsibility in those matters." Mr. J. G. Raphael handed in subscriptions collected by him from thirteen different gentlemen, amounting in all to £104 6s. Messrs. M'Arthur and Company, by a letter, placed goods to the value of £68 4s. 7d. at the disposal of the committee of relief. The names of the following gentlemen were added to the general committee:—Mr. Palmer, the Hon. John Hay, Mr. Archibald Thomson, Mr. Charles Chapman, Mr. Richard Driver, Mr. Brewster, Mr. James Harrison, and Mr. Saunders. After some conversation of a rather desultory character, it was moved by Mr. D. C. Dalgleish, and seconded by Mr. Garrett,—"That the sums voted by the committee out of the funds previously subscribed for the relief of supposed distress at the Manning and the Macleay Rivers be restored to the general fund, no report of distress having reached this committee from those districts." The Rev. Thomas Smith deprecated any such discussion as appeared to be contemplated, and thought that the best course for them to adopt would be to go immediately and collect money for the general relief fund. Mr. Gorman pointed out to Mr. Dalgleish that he had been misinformed as to his supposed facts, and Mr. Piddington also explained how the funds in the hands of the late relief fund had been distributed. It was a matter, however, in which this newly appointed relief fund (which had only just begun to make collections) had nothing whatever to do. Mr. Piddington, in reference to some remarks made by Mr. Dalgleish, also vindicated the entire regularity of the proceedings of the late Relief Fund Committee at the time of its reassembling on Monday last; and shewed the perfect competency of the committee then assembled to deal with the funds which had then for some time previous been left in their hands. On receiving this explanation, Mr. Dalgleish expressed himself satisfied, and, by leave, withdrew his motion. Mr. Saunders, of the Parcels Delivery Company, offered to convey to any assigned place any parcels of clothing which might be contributed to any receiving depôt which might be pointed out. It was intimated that the Mayor's stores were open to receive all such clothes. Mr. Dawson said that the stores of their establishment were, as he had several times before observed, open for the reception of such clothes; and the Rev. Thomas Smith also stated that he had already a large quantity of such clothes waiting to be sent off. Mr. J. G. Raphael proposed that there should be a clothing committee, independent of the working committee, but after a long discussion it was understood to be settled that the management of all these details, in reference to the collecting and dispatch of the clothes which might be wanted, should be left to a working committee—who would have to report from time to time to the general committee. The mode of the nomination of this working committee was then the subject of some debate, and eventually it was determined that three gentlemen should be appointed to nominate a working committee of twelve, including themselves and the two treasurers and the secretary. The gentlemen who were entrusted with the nomination of the working committee were the Rev. A. H. Stephen, the Rev. Dr. Lang, and the Rev. S. C. Kent. These gentlemen on their return named the committee accordingly. It so happening, however, that one of the gentlemen nominated (Mr. Dalgleish) could not conveniently attend, the name of Mr. L. W. Levey (a gentleman now resident at Sydney but well acquainted with the Hunter district) was placed on the list. The names of the working committee were thus finally settled to be as follows:—The Mayor of Sydney, Mr. J. G. Raphael, the Rev. Thomas Smith, the Rev. J. F. Sheridan, Mr. John Fairfax, Mr. T. B. Rolin, Mr. J. Dawson, Mr. Alderman Speer, Mr. L. W. Levey, the Rev. Dr. Lang, the Rev. A. H. Stephen, the Rev. S. C. Kent, with the two treasurers, Messrs. Piddington and Gorman,—and Mr. Hanson, the secretary. Signed lists were prepared to send to various places. It was also announced by the treasurer, Mr. Piddington, that he had already deposited in the Bank of New South Wales the sum of £419 19s. 6d. to the credit of the General Floods Relief Fund. Since that deposit he had received a variety of subscriptions—some of them very large sums. Mr. Piddington read a list of these sums, which amounted to over £608. The committee adjourned until next Monday week, the 8th of July. The working committee sat and transacted business, after the meeting. At that subsequent meeting of the working committee, it was announced that the Bank of New South Wales had contributed £250 towards the Floods Relief Fund. Contributions of flour, sugar, tea, blankets, &c., were voted for the Hunter River District, the Araluen, the Shoalhaven, the district of Windsor, and other places. It was determined, as far as possible, to furnish supplies in kind, instead of money. Arrangements were also initiated for canvassing through the wards of the city, and for soliciting the chairman of the suburban municipalities to convene public meetings to collect subscriptions. The Illawarra Steam Navigation Company have kindly consented to carry supplies to the Southern ports.

The Volunteer Bill.—A meeting of Volunteer officers, called for the purpose of considering the provisions in the Volunteer Bill and regulations to be introduced into Parliament during the approaching session, was held at the Volunteer Brigade Office, on Thursday evening last. This meeting was originally convened by circular, issued by Captain Raymond, with the concurrence of the Commanding Officer for the purpose of obtaining from the Volunteer officers an expression of opinion in regard to the bill alluded to and to make suggestions to amend any provisions wherein the bill might be considered to be deficient. At the first meeting a committee was appointed to go through the bill, and prepare a report to be submitted to a general meeting. The committee met and prepared a report accordingly, and the report was submitted to the general meeting on Thursday evening. The report, with some few alterations, was adopted, and a committee, to form a deputation to the Colonial Secretary, to represent the opinions and wishes embodied in the report, was appointed.

Suicide.—An inquiry respecting the death of Joseph Silvester Walsh was held before the City Coroner, yesterday, at the Signal Hotel, South Head. Cecilia Jane Walsh stated that she resided at Oncliff House, South Head; her husband was a native of Dublin, and was about thirty five years of age; he has left five children; for the last five years he had been a pilot in the New South Wales pilot service; for the last fortnight he complained of feeling ill, but did not say what ailed him; he had been away from duty during that time; she observed no change in his manner lately, except that he slept better than usual, and dozed both day and night; he complained very much of loss of money through being unable to attend to his duty; he was in the habit of drinking to excess; during the last fortnight he had been drinking constantly, so much so as to be unable to attend to his duty; he has met with no losses excepting the loss occasioned by his not attending to his duty; from his conversation and manner she believed his mind had latterly been impaired; he never threatened to commit suicide, nor did he ever make any remarks to lead her to think that he would do so; when under the influence of drink he used violence towards any person in the house; she was at Mrs. Robinson's, next door to her husband's residence, on Wednesday evening, when she received a message that her husband had cut his throat; he died about noon on the following morning. Daniel M'Bean, boatman in the pilot service, and one of the crew belonging to deceased's boat, stated that he had been with deceased eight days; during that time deceased had been drinking; on Tuesday evening, between 7 and 8 o'clock the servant went into the bedroom to put the children to bed, and when she returned she was bleeding at the mouth; he then went into the bedroom when he saw deceased had one of his children in his arms; he took the child away from him, but observed nothing strange in his manner or conduct; on Wednesday evening he was standing in the kitchen of deceased's house when he heard a peculiar noise as if coming from the passage; he heard the noise a second time; he then went into deceased's bedroom, and found him lying on the bed with a wound in his throat from which blood was flowing; there was a great deal of blood on the floor and bed; he got a towel and placed it round deceased's neck to stop the bleeding; three others of the boat's-crew entered the room almost at the same time as he did; when placing the towel round his neck, deceased asked him not to hurt him. William Godding picked up a razor near to the bed on which deceased was lying; it was covered with blood. Robert Samuel Newton had been in deceased's employ during the last two months; deceased had lately been drinking to excess, but he was perfectly sane in his behaviour; he had had to run from the house, and so also had Mrs. Walsh and the children, when deceased had been drinking. Dr. Shaw stated that on Wednesday evening he received a message from the South Head, requesting him to visit that place to attend Mr. Walsh; on arriving there he found deceased lying on a bed surrounded with blood; he examined the internal condition of the wound and found that the windpipe was cut entirely through; he subsequently found that the pharynx was cut through; the anterior jugular veins were also cut through; he adopted the usual means in such cases; from the severe nature of the wound which was of a very determined character, he had no hope of his recovery; deceased had severe convulsive seizures during his visit; he visited him again on the following morning; spasm of the glottis supervened on deceased attempting to swallow about a cup of beef tea; a convulsion ensued, and death took place about midday; deceased was very kindly attended to by his brother pilots, by the constable, and others. Verdict: "Died from the effects of a wound inflicted in his throat himself whilst labouring under a fit of temporary insanity." At the request of the jury the following memorandum was attached to the depositions:—"The jury expressed their commendation of the conduct of constable Parkinson, stationed at South Head, for his kind attention towards the deceased, and also for the efficient discharge of his duties on former occasions; and requested that the coroner would convey that expression of opinion to the Inspector-General of Police."

BATHURST.

Friday, 6 p.m.

There was an open air meeting last night, in front of the Royal Hotel, upon the subject of the railway policy of the Government. It was one of the largest gatherings that has been witnessed in Bathurst for years. Resolutions were passed calling upon the Government for a more vigorous prosecution of works, and upon the Western representatives in Parliament to combine and assert the claims of these districts to equal treatment with the South.

FLOOD IN THE MURRUMBIDGEE.

The Murrumbidgee rose rapidly on the 21st instant after much bad weather from the eastward, and on Saturday night, 22nd, it broke its banks, flooding into the town. By Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock, the flood attained its maximum height, which was equal to that of 1844. The lower portion of the town is submerged, and the houses deserted. The Bank of New South Wales had nearly two feet of water over the floor. The river remained almost stationary until Wednesday, when it began to subside, and has now gone down about five feet. Two persons were drowned. The bridge scarcely vibrated to the current. There has been little or no loss of property in town, but it is feared, as reports come in, that the free selectors have suffered severely on the flats, and that lives have been lost there also.

Weather, cloudy; but the drift is all from the westward.

Concerts in Aid of the Floods Relief Fund.—Two concerts are announced in aid of funds for the relief of the sufferers by the late disastrous floods throughout the colony; and in both, the vocal and instrumental artistes, professional and amateur, of our city, have given their gratuitous services. The first takes place this afternoon at the Masonic Hall, and commences at 2 o'clock; and the second at the Victoria Theatre on Monday evening next, commencing at 8 o'clock. The programmes of both concerts are sufficiently attractive to bring together large audiences, apart from the truly benevolent object with which they are given.

The Flood in the Lower Hawkesbury.—Intelligence was received by the Government, yesterday, that the settlers in the Lower Hawkesbury and Macdonald River had suffered fearfully from the flood; in many cases, their houses as well as their crops being entirely swept away. The destitution of these poor people appears to be fearful. Upon the receipt of this intelligence the Colonial Secretary, without having time to consult his colleagues, chartered a steamer—the Kiama—and she proceeded to Broken Bay at 3 o'clock this morning, the Colonial Secretary being a passenger by her. The Kiama took eight tons of flour, 300 loaves of bread, ten casks of beef, four quarters of fresh beef, four chests of tea, one ton of sugar, five tons of potatoes, half a ton of salt, two bales of blankets, one bale of women's and children's clothing, and other small articles, such as corn flour, &c., for children and sick persons.

The Queen's Coronation.—Yesterday being the twenty-ninth anniversary of the coronation of Queen Victoria, the Royal Standard was unfurled on Dawes Point, and the White, Blue, and Red ensigns were hauled up at the mastheads of H. M. S. Salamander lying in Farm Cove.

Rifle Association.—A meeting of the committee of the New South Wales Rifle Association was held at the Volunteer Brigade Office yesterday afternoon, Lieutenant-Colonel Richardson in the chair. A letter was received from Mr. Walter Lamb tendering his resignation as one of the honorary secretaries. The resignation was accepted, and a vote of thanks was awarded to Mr. Lamb for his past services. The committee also availed themselves of the opportunity to express their gratification that, although Mr. Lamb had resigned the office of joint honorary secretary, the association still retained his services as one of its vice-presidents. Mr. Brewer was re-elected joint honorary secretary, and Mr. H. C. Dangar was elected to supply the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. Lamb. A motion, of which notice had been given, was moved to the effect that her Majesty's 50th Regiment be requested to select and send a team of twelve men to compete for the challenge bugle (presented by Messrs. Flavelle, Brothers), which was competed for at the last annual prize meeting of the Association by the three battalions of Volunteers, namely the Sydney, Suburban, and country corps. Some discussion took place in regard to the propriety of admitting the military to shoot for this particular prize; and it was pointed out that even in the event of the committee being favourable to the proposition they could scarcely adopt it in the face of one of their rules, which provided that competitors for the prizes offered by the association at its annual meetings should be "bona fide enrolled volunteers." It was held, moreover, that the donors of this prize should be consulted before a resolution of this kind should be adopted. Under these circumstances the discussion on the motion was postponed till the next meeting. The committee then proceeded to discuss the best means to be adopted to assist them in selecting the ten best shots to represent the colony in the next Intercolonial Rifle Match, and, after an animated discussion, the following resolution was agreed to,—"That each competitor shall fire not less than thirty shots at each of the ranges of 200, 300, 500, 600, 700, 800, and 900 yards, exclusive of sighting shots, on such days and under such regulations as the Selection Committee may appoint and make." Under this resolution the competitors will not fire more than twenty shots (in the competition), and at more than two ranges, on any one day, and the members of the Small Bore Rifle Club will observe that the competitions will harmonise with the practices of that club. The Selection Committee appointed consists of Colonel Richardson, Mr. Walter Lamb, Mr. R. Jones, and Captains Raymond, Teale, and Goodlet, with power to add to their number. This terminated the proceedings.

Masonic Jewel.—A beautifully-made Masonic jewel—that of a Past Master—has been presented to Brother William Booth, S.C., of the Lodge St. John's, in the Araluen district, of which lodge Br. P. M. Booth is the founder. The jewel is splendidly executed in finely-wrought solid gold, and reflects the highest credit on the atelier of Mr. G. C. Cooke, of 231, Pitt-street, near King-street, in this city. On the medallion of the jewel is a spiritedly-designed figure of St. Andrew in bold relief, with the two Unicorns, the Scottish Thistle, and other national insignia. It is suspended by a very handsome chain; and, pendant from the jewel, is the mystic symbol of the square and compasses, the meaning of which is known only to the initiated. The inscription at the back is as follows:—"Presented by the Brethren of the Araluen Lodge of St. John's, S. C., to its founder, W. Booth, P.M., as a mark of his able and indefatigable services to Masonry in general, and to the Brethren of this Lodge in particular, during the years 1865 and 1866."

The Prince of Wales Opera House.—Madame Celeste's performances have been well attended during the week, and great satisfaction has been expressed at the excellent manner in which the pieces have been placed upon the stage. On Monday and Tuesday evening Madeline and the Abbe Vaudreil were repeated. On Wednesday Lady Young and party were present. The dress circle was well filled, and the other parts of the house crowded. The House on the Bridge of Notre Dame and the Abbe Vaudreil formed the bill on the occasion. Next evening Madeline was substituted for the House on the Bridge. The performances on the two subsequent evenings were the same. To-night the celebrated drama the Green Bushes, originally produced by Madame Celeste, and rendered famous by her celebrated impersonation of "Miami," will be produced in the same manner as originally presented to the London public. Madame Celeste's engagement terminates next week.

Wilful Destruction of Property.—On Saturday night, or early on Sunday morning last, some villain in human form wantonly destroyed the fencing and the whole of the fruit trees in the garden of Mr. Harvey, in Berry-street, Nowra. Nearly the whole of the fencing was pulled down, and every peach tree about the house was cut down by a tenon saw, the heads of the trees left hanging by a small strip of the bark. Mr. Harvey, together with his daughter, Mrs. Rushton, had left the house during the flood, thus giving a favourable opportunity to the mean and dastardly scoundrel who perpetrated the foul deed. A new shingling hammer was picked up at the scene of the outrage, and from what we can learn, this midnight marauder is likely to come to grief.—Shoalhaven News.

Market Wharf Clearance Sale.—R. F. Stubbs and Co. will sell at the Market Wharf, this day, various lots timber, furniture, &c., by order of Messrs. Brown and Sons. Note—11 o'clock.—Adv.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

FROM THE 21ST JUNE TO THE 28TH JUNE.

THE one great event which has occupied the public mind has been the disastrous floods which have overwhelmed the low-lying districts in the immediate neighbourhoods of Windsor, Richmond, Penrith, Maitland, and elsewhere. In the Nepean, the Hawkesbury, and the Hunter, towards the close of last week, immense tracts were, in consequence of the heavy rains, laid under water, lives lost, and property destroyed. The town of Windsor was almost totally submerged, and a vast extent of country was covered with the waters on the Hunter. The full extent of the loss occasioned by this terrible calamity has not, it is to be feared, yet been realised. Active measures have been initiated to assist the sufferers.

John Prendergast, aged sixty-four years, died of exposure and self-neglect, on the afternoon of the 21st instant.

The sixth of a series of Penny Readings in connection with the Saturday Half-Holiday Association, given for the amusement and instruction of the working classes, took place in the Temperance Hall, Pitt-street, last Saturday evening, at which the Rev. A. B. Davis presided.

A man named James Pettit, of Lane Cove, was found drowned in the water near Onion Point, Lane Cove, last Thursday week.

Meetings of the magistrates of Sydney have been held to consider the steps necessary to be taken to put down music and dancing saloons, on account of their demoralising tendency.

A man named George Lee, 'bus-driver, was found lying dead on the Point Piper Road, about 11 o'clock last Saturday night. He is supposed to have died in a fit.

In the height of the fearful storm on Friday night, the 21st instant, Mr. H. C. Thompson (the local manager of the Bulli Coal Company) and his three assistants were swept off the jetty and drowned. During the same severe gale, whilst Mr. Edwards, the pilot at Wollongong, with his son, was endeavouring to board a ketch, a heavy sea struck the boat and capsized her. Mr. Edwards was unfortunately drowned. The boy was saved.

A boy named F. A. Pawley was suffocated in a heap of sand on Surry Hills, last Saturday afternoon.

It appears that the Southern and Western lines have sustained little or no damage during the late flood rains.

Last Monday evening the Rev. Dr. Steel delivered, at the Presbyterian church, in Palmer-street, a lecture on the social and domestic economy of the Jews. The chair was taken by Mr. John Richardson.

The Denison Bridge, at Bathurst, over the Macquarie, has been destroyed by the floods. This untoward event has stopped all traffic in that direction for the present.

A man was drowned at Penrith on Monday last, whilst attempting to cross the Nepean.

The Relief Fund Committee of 1864 assembled at the Metropolitan Hotel, Pitt-street, last Monday afternoon, and authorised their treasurers to divide the money in their possession (£921) amongst the districts which had just been devastated by floods. Subsequently this meeting led to the formation of a new committee, and a more extensive organisation to provide against the present calamity. Many charitable citizens have forwarded large presents of food, clothing, and blankets.

The usual monthly meeting of the Acclimatisation Society was held last Monday night, at the School of Arts, Mr. J. B. Bossi in the chair. A paper by Mr. R. Emerson, on the oyster fisheries of New South Wales, was read by Dr. Bennett.

At the fortnightly meeting of the Sydney Municipal Council on Monday last, Mr. Alderman Macintosh moved the following motion relative to the construction of the dams at Botany:—"That the opening of tenders for the construction of dams, Nos. 4, 5, and 6, be postponed for two weeks to afford time for the appointment of two competent surveyors to inspect the locality, to consider the City Engineer's recommendation for their construction, and report thereon to the Council; also to ascertain the amount of compensation that may be required to be paid for the resumption of the land necessary to carry out the plans laid before the Water Committee." The motion was negatived.

On Monday last, at Liverpool, Mr. John Lackey and Mr. Graham were nominated candidates for the vacant seat in the Legislative Assembly, caused by the resignation of the Hon. John Hay. The show of hands was in favour of Mr. Lackey, who has since been returned.

CRIME AND ITS SOURCES. By CRITIC.

THE "COMPLIMENTARY DINNER." By A. M. AUSTRALIS.

WHEN "A. M. Australis" thanks your correspondent "Critic," for giving him "a chance which he has been longing for this month past," one is forcibly reminded of Mickey Free drinking his own health. Unfortunately for himself, "A. M. Australis," like Micky, has not been cautious enough to prevent the public discovering him when performing the little self-congratulatory ceremony. But if a gentleman wishes to appear in print like Cerberus, as "three gentlemen at once," he should, like other masqueraders, make his costumes perfect in their disguise, and in keeping with his characters. As it is, "A. M. Australis" cannot be congratulated either on the completeness of his make up or on the performance of his role. Unfortunately for "Critic," he has been forgetful of the Unities. Most masqueraders, desiring to appear in several characters, are content to do so, like Mr. Gouly, allowing some time, however short, for the change of garb; but "Critic" would attempt a feat which, if successful, would make him invaluable as a performer in the Corsican Brothers. He would appear as "Critic," and in the same scene return thanks to himself without detection. He may assure himself that the thing is an impossibility. Through all his disguises may be recognised our old acquaintance of "Three Stars" notoriety. "Critic" and A. M. Australis" are one and the same writer. The evidence is overwhelming. "Critic" writes an article in which he, with remarkable gratitude to the country that gives him bread, endeavours to prove that the crime of bushranging, so prevalent of late, is in no way owing to what the Chief Justice calls "the old leaven of convictism not yet worked out," but to the natural proclivity to crime general amongst the people of New South Wales. In this article "Critic" has the following passage:—

I this statement, so consoling to our self-love, fallen from any the brass band who habitually perform variations on the poor melody of "Advance Australia," it would have been too ordinary an affair to claim special notice. We know that the decratic trumpet is to be sounded in season and out of season; we are familiar with the several styles of the principal performers. Whatever be the occasion, New South Wales, her institutions, her state and prospects, are to be treated like the d. of whom the proverb tells us that nothing but good is to be seen. Even at a gathering so exceptional as that recently at Clark's rooms in honour of Dr. Badham, the guest of the evening was but a secondary personage to Demos. All the our orators were in full blast, and the inevitable Dr. Lang, died by some specially malignant influence to return thanks for British Universities, after beginning with vulgar sneers at Oxford and Cambridge, concluded the proceedings by burlesing Horace in honour of Botany Bay! So wags the world at Sydney.

Any one who has read the letter signed "A. M. Australis" will see that it is an elaboration of Critic's attitudes. Probably the semi-editorial dignity of Critic's large type would not allow of the "slang-whanging" style indulged in by "A. M. Australis." To appear a moralising critic in long primer, and a Billingsgate fishfag in brevier, is a transformation worthy of a literary Gourlay. The letter of "A. M. Australis" is evidently supposed to have been written after seeing Critic's letter in the paper and in "big type." But, if written by different persons, how is it that the letters appear on the same morning? Above all, how could "A. M. Australis" speak of Critic's letter as having appeared in "big type?" The theory of prescience discarded, the solution is, that "A. M. Australis," when writing, knew that, as Critic, he had the privilege of big type.

As for the representation of "A. M. A.," that he is a country parson, he seems to have forgotten that coarse abuse and violent language are not exactly the characteristics of clergymen. Attributing such a free use of the word "swindle" to any of the many clergymen who assembled to do honour to Dr. Badham, is surely a libel upon the character of every clergyman present at the dinner. As for the value of the assertion in itself, it is not improbable that a gentleman who returns thanks to himself, would think the assumption of the character as a disguise, as harmless as his nom de plume. The identity of the writer being otherwise clear, the assumption of the clerical disguise is worthless. To use the expressive phrase of "A. M. Australis," "it is a dead swindle from first to last."

When "A. M. Australis" complains that, in going to the public dinner given to Dr. Badham, he has been "swindled"—that the "affair" was a "dead swindle"—that his money "has been obtained under false pretences"—and, therefore, that inferentially the committee of management are swindlers, and certainly a "wretched clique," he will in the charity of his clerical character forgive the exercise of a severe judgment.

He querulously asks why Dr. Badham was stuck between two Crown Ministers? Why? Because the dinner was public, and the Premier being in the chair, the guest was naturally on his right, and the Colonial Secretary, as the next in rank, was properly next to the guest. Probably the place of the guest was as honourable as if he had been stuck beside a "slang-whanging" critic, who writes letters to himself.

But it is clear that the great offence of the committee was allowing Dr. Lang, as the oldest graduate present, to return thanks for the British Universities. Scholarship was dumb when "A. M. Australis" opened not his mouth. It is certainly a matter of public regret that the amour propre of "A. M. Australis" was offended, but it hardly justifies his rabid attack on all connected with the dinner. He heard and saw Dr. Badham, and his lamentation over his twenty-five shillings is but a poor compliment to the learned Professor, whom he asserts himself willing to honour. The circular of every dinner committee, like the old play-bills, winds up with the formula, "Vivat Regina.—No money returned." Were it not creating a bad precedent for future dinner committees, one would be tempted to get up a shilling subscription, and return "A. M. Australis" his money. As for the supposed "vulgarity" of the expression "complimentary dinner," no stigma attaches to the committee. It was never used by them. Until it appeared in the "slang-whanging" brevier of "A. M. Australis," it only existed in his imagination, probably first appearing to him in a flaming scroll, ornamented with empty cawarra bottles, during a fit of nightmare brought on by indigestion after the dinner. The learned Attorney-General, who is generally supposed to be somewhat discriminating, and altogether chary of indulging in wholesale praise, must be somewhat surprised to find that he has been guilty of still greater "vulgarity" in the compliments, "plastered, trowel fashion, on the guest of the evening."

When "A. M. Australis" talks of Dr. Badham thinking his entertainers "snobs," it is to be feared that, in the multiplicity of his characters, our masquerader forgets his own identity, and has a bad habit of talking to himself.

So much for the failures of "Critic," alias "A. M. Australis," to carry out his parts. But I had almost forgotten. He has been successful in one thing. He has achieved the highest triumph of the actor—the disguise of his own personal character. For, in the personal feeling displayed in the diatribes of the writer of "Three Stars," when accusing gentlemen of corruption and base conspiracy, as in his article against the trustees of the Sydney Grammar School, or in the self-answered letters of the newspaper hack who could detect the calm impartiality and judicial retirement of the District Court Judge or the dignified courtesy of the scholar. If the Judge will from behind his mask talk of "swindles" and a "wretched clique," he must not, whilst declaiming, be surprised if the disguise is plucked from his face, and that he stands revealed as what in an article on our "Parliamentary Slangwhangers" (Judge, I thank thee for that word), he would be apt to call the most extraordinary lusus naturæ of "Botany Bay," a slangwhanging Judge.

LAW.

SUPREME COURT.—FRIDAY.

SITTINGS IN BANCO.

BEFORE their Honors Sir ALFRED STEPHEN, Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice FAUCETT.

ADMISSIONS TO THE BAR.

Sir William Manning, Q.C., moved the admission to the bar of New South Wales of Ernest Brougham Docker, Esq., M.A.; and Charles Edward Robertson Murray, Esq., M.A. It was stated that both these gentlemen had graduated, with great honour to themselves, at the University of Sydney, and had passed very satisfactory examinations both in law and in equity.

Their HONORS intimated that they had great pleasure in directing the admission of Mr. Docker and Mr. Murray, with whom they were personally acquainted, and who would, their Honors believed, do honour to the profession.

MOTION TO SET ASIDE A JUDGE'S ORDER.—MURNIN V. THE UNITED INSURANCE CO.

This was a motion to rescind or vary an order made by Mr. Justice Hargrave, in chambers, dismissing an application for "further and better particulars" of the plaintiff's claim under the ordinary money counts of the declaration. It was an action upon a marine insurance, and the particulars filed in support of the common counts stated that a sum of £469 13s. 2d. had been paid by the plaintiff (through barratry by the ship master) in order to obtain possession, at New Zealand, of the vessel (the Marian Renny), which had been insured. The question was, whether or not defendants were entitled to more detailed particulars.

Mr. Fisher appeared in support of the motion, and Mr. Darley in support of the Judge's order.

Their Honors refused the application, with costs, holding that no advantage would be likely to accrue from the rendering of such further particulars.

DEMURRER.—SEMPILL V. THE ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION.

This was a demurrer to a plea of set-off in an action upon a bill of exchange.

Mr. Stephen appeared in support of the demurrer, and Mr. Darley in support of the plea.

The plaintiff sued as the official assignee of Messrs. Wilkinson, Brothers, of Sydney. The declaration was upon a bill of exchange for £1221 4s. 5d., drawn upon defendants in favour of Wilkinson, Brothers, by Messrs. W. M. Anderson and Guthrie Muir, at Mauritius, on the 6th November, 1866, payable at thirty days' sight, and accepted by defendants on the 27th December, 1866. Defendants pleaded, as a set-off, a promissory note, at five months (for £608), dated 6th July, 1866, made by Wilkinson, Brothers, in favour of Messrs. Threlkeld and Co., and endorsed by the latter to the defendants. This plea was demurred to upon the ground that a debt due to the defendants by Wilkinson, Brothers before their insolvency, which took place on the 2nd October, 1866, could not be set-off against a claim accruing to the assignee after the sequestration.

After the argument had been for some time proceeded with, it was arranged that all the facts should be embodied in a special case for the opinion of the Court.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.

FRIDAY.

BEFORE his Honor Judge SIMPSON.

CA. SA. MOTIONS.

A few applications for writs of ca. sa. were heard and disposed of.

BARTH V. WHARTON.

This was an application on the part of the plaintiff to set aside an order for costs. When the cause was called on for trial the plaintiff was not present. Defendant appeared by his attorney, Mr. R. B. Smith, who presented plaintiff's receipt for the amount sued for. The case was struck out, and defendant's attorney obtained compensation. The Judge granted the application, and made an order that the plaintiff should pay compensation to the amount of £3 10s. It now appeared that Barth had sued Wharton for £16, but in consequence of certain representations had been induced to accept £15, and to give a receipt for payment in full. Subsequently when the case was called on, the plaintiff's clerk was in Court and stepped into the witness-box. He said that the case was "settled," but the defendant's attorney (then Mr. Adams) called out "defended." It appeared that the officer of the Court did not hear the word "settled," and the clause was therefore set down in the defended list. The plaintiff's clerk who was attending the Court in a number of other cases, did not tell the plaintiff that a person had called out "defended," in this particular case, and he does not appear to have noticed that circumstance. Plaintiff was therefore not present at the trial, and hence the order for compensation in lieu of costs had been made. Mr. R. B. Smith appeared in support of the order, and argued that the Judge had no power under the Act to rescind the order. His Honor said that the case had been put before him simply as an ordinary defended case, in which the plaintiff did not appear. There was now disclosed a state of facts of which he had not been aware or he certainly should never have made the order for compensation. He thought that to some extent Barth's clerk was to blame in not telling the plaintiff what had occurred in Court. However, he could not allow the order to stand. As to his power to rescind the order, he had an idea that the Judges in any Court had the control of the process of their own Court, and could step in at any time to prevent it being made to work injustice or oppression. Mr. Smith said that execution had been taken out against Barth, and he applied to have the fees returned. His Honor certainly did not think that execution ought to have been issued.

WALLACH V. STORCH.

In this case Mr. Levey, the solicitor for the plaintiff, applied for costs. Defendant had paid the amount of the plaintiff's claim into Court. The amount, however, was not paid within the period prescribed by the rules of Court, and the plaintiff's attorney had, in the meantime, instructed counsel and incurred other charges. His Honor found that the amount to which Mr. Levey was entitled was £2 13s. 6d.

BETHEL V. RUSSELL.

This was an interpleader suit. The plaintiff had obtained a verdict, and had distrained on property which was now claimed by the defendant's father. The judgment creditor was unable to disprove Russell senior's title to the goods. Verdict for claimant.

STRONG V. COMMINS.

The plaintiff in this case was William Henry Strong, who sued the defendant for goods sold and delivered, bargained and sold, and money paid to the defendant by him while trading as Lenehan and Co. The defendant's pleas were, never indebted, set-off, and payment. The amount claimed by the plaintiff was £42 19s. 2d., and the amount of the defendant's set-off was £45. Mr. G. C. Davis appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Butler for the defendant. The plaintiff's case was that he had sold furniture to the defendant for the amount of his present claim. There was an admission on the part of the defendant that the goods had been received by him; but he denied that they were the property of Strong, and averred that he had taken them from Lenehan in payment of a debt due from Lenehan to himself. Plaintiff stated that he had bought the business of Mr. A. Lenehan with bills given by Mr. Flood. The arrangement was that the proceeds arising from the sale of furniture in stock should be appropriated to pay off Flood's bills, and that afterwards Lenehan and Strong should jointly become the owners of the business. The proceeds were paid into the Commercial Bank to the credit of W. H. Strong. On cross-examination, the plaintiff stated that Flood's bills had not been paid. He had formerly been foreman to Lenehan, and after he had bought the business Lenehan continued to order him as he had formerly done when a servant. This was from habit, and not from any authority which Lenehan had over him. In fact, plaintiff drew money out of the business at the rate of £4 5s. a week, but did not consider this in the nature of a salary; he was now in the receipt of wages. Lenehan's name was over the door; and the bills were made out in the name of Lenehan and Co. Plaintiff had never applied to the defendant for payment. Plaintiff admitted that he had not been consulted before this or a former action was brought. Defendant alleged that he never knew the plaintiff as being in any respect the owner of the business; and Strong had as much as admitted to him that he was a cipher in the concern. Lenehan had given him the goods in payment of a debt due to him, and in fact had pressed the furniture upon his acceptance. At a former sittings of the Court he had been sued for the account now claimed, the plaint being made out in the name of Lenehan and Co., and that was the first demand he had received for payment. Lenehan contradicted Commins on the terms of the contract. His version of the matter was that the goods were to be allowed to remain on the books until Flood's bills had been paid, and that then he (Lenehan) would write them off in liquidation of the debt payable by him to Commins. Strong denied that he had admitted to Commins that he was a cipher in the business, and averred that he was the bona fide purchaser of the business, and was jointly liable with Flood for the amount of the bills. The goods were delivered to the defendant subsequent to the assignment made by Lenehan of his estate. Verdict for the plaintiff for the amount claimed.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY.

BEFORE their Worships the Police Magistrate, Messrs. Pinhey, Oatley, G. Hill, E. Campbell, and Dangar.

Of eleven prisoners brought before the Court, two were discharged and one was remanded. Two were fined 5s. each, and three 10s. each for drunkenness.

Edward Sherwood and James Downey, found in possession of certain articles of female wearing apparel, suspected to have been stolen, and being unable to satisfy their Worships on the matter, were sentenced to be imprisoned one month.

John Cregan was charged with having committed an aggravated assault upon one Annie de Martiari. She said that he came into her house, and at once set to beating her; she gave him no provocation, nor did he allege any. Her face presented a mass of bruises, her eyes were blackened, and she could scarcely see, one arm she carried in a sling, two fingers of the hand being broken. The defendant pleaded guilty, and by way of extenuation said that he had "a dhrop of drink." To pay a penalty of £20, or to be imprisoned three months.

On the summons paper were sixteen cases, of which two were dismissed and six were struck out. James Smith, William Potter, and Henry Potter were found guilty of having assaulted Joseph Starkey, and were fined 20s. each. Mary Davis was fined 10s. for using obscene language, and George Morgan 5s. for disorderly conduct while drunk. Edward Kohr was fined 10s. for allowing cows, his property, to stray at large. Timothy Ryan was fined 10s. for keeping open his house for the sale of liquors on Sunday. Edward Roberts and John Smith were fined 5s each for allowing carts to remain in a public street at the Glebe.

THE ROSTER.—Messrs. Bray, Macdona, and Burdekin have been summoned for bench duty on Saturday.

WATER POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY.

BEFORE the Water Police Magistrate, with Mr. H. H. Voss, and Mr. M. Chapman.

Five persons convicted of drunkenness or other disorderly conduct in the streets, were fined in sums from 5s. to 20s., with the usual alternative of imprisonment in case of non-payment. Mary Hand, 76, in custody as an idle and disorderly character, was sent to the Benevolent Asylum, and Daniel Daly, apprehended as idle and disorderly, was committed to gaol for six months. John Clancy was sentenced to twenty-four hours' imprisonment for indecent behaviour in Court. He had been summoned for an assault upon his wife, and appeared before the Bench in a state of intoxication. John M'Carthy, for riotous conduct in George-street, was fined 10s., in case of non-payment, levy and distress or three days' imprisonment. John M'Donnell, 76, apprehended for vagrancy, was sent to the Benevolent Asylum.

Charles Burns, apprehended as a straggler from H.M.S. Charybdis, was remanded to gaol for fourteen days, to await the return of his ship to port.

James Garvey, cabman, appeared on summons to answer the information of James Shipley Daniell, which charged him with using threatening language. Complainant, it appeared, on the 24th instant, hired defendant's cab, about midnight, in King-street, to drive him to Alfred-street. Defendant drove him through various streets in Woolloomooloo, and after unnecessarily driving about for nearly an hour, they reached the street sought for. Defendant, when engaged, professed to know the street, and complainant, who did not know, had to inquire where it was. As complainant, who had given him 2s. fare, entered a house, defendant knocked at the door, and threatened to throw it in his face. He told him to come out and fight, and eventually complainant paid him 5s., although the place might have been reached in ten minutes. Fined 20s. with costs; in default of payment levy and distress, and in case of insufficiency fourteen days imprisonment.

William Lewis, 16, brought before the Court charged with stealing a silver geneva watch found in his possession, was remanded till to-morrow.

THE FLOOD IN THE NEPEAN.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.]

THE people of Penrith are about to illustrate the truth of the adage which says that "Misfortunes never come singly." One great calamity has befallen them, and another—by some people considered almost as great—follows close upon the heels of the first. The dreadful flood which has laid waste their meadows and desolated so many homes, was a very heavy visitation, and one that was of itself almost more than the district could bear; but the subsidence of the flood does not relieve them, and the agriculturists are now looking forward with the gloomiest forebodings to the opening of the railway extension to Weatherboard Creek. Most people—if they had no property in the town of Penrith—would, I fancy, regard the opening up of easy traffic to the interior as a blessing to the colony at large. It is no doubt a national blessing; but then, in the case of Penrith, it is a local grievance. The residents of that town regard it as such. The freeholders are trying to sell out and betake themselves elsewhere. The leaseholders will not make improvements on the land, because they think that the extension of the railway beyond Penrith will destroy their chance of obtaining a good profit for their trouble. Some say that the flood and the railway together will completely ruin the district; that they might have contended against either misfortune if it came alone, but the double trouble is more than they can conquer. There is no doubt some reason for the fears which are thus expressed. The most eligible situation that a settler or tradesman can occupy along a railway line is at the terminus, and, of course, when the terminus of the Great Western line is removed from Penrith to a spot many miles inland, a good share of the trade of the former place will be transferred to the latter; therefore, no doubt, some diminution of prosperity will be caused in this way. But Penrith will not be affected so much as other towns have been by similar circumstances. The country through which the extension passes is most precipitous, barren, and miserable. There are but the smallest patches—few and far between—on which agriculture could be carried on with any hope of success, and therefore it is not likely that people who take up land there will take much of the trade from Penrith.

While the effects of this dire visitation has in a great degree paralysed the energies of the people, it has aroused in all a touching generosity and kindliness to each other. The injunction to "Help one another" is obeyed by these poor sufferers to the letter. Many a settler who has managed to save a pittance from the wreck of his home shares what he has got with his poorer neighbours. In many a wretched hovel on the banks of the Nepean there is a daily exhibition of the purest charity and brotherly love. Those who have but a loaf will share it with those who have none, and many stint their own food in order to feed others. This is true charity. Anyone who visits these people, and who sees their self-denial, their care for their comrades, even in the extremity of their own distress, must be touched and instructed by the sight.

There is great misery among these people. The fancy cannot paint, the pen cannot describe, the squalor and wretchedness that exist in some places. If ever there were suffering men and women in need of aid, these men and women are. Homeless, penniless, utterly forlorn and destitute, some without clothes, some without food to eat, or a bed to lie upon, their condition is something terrible. It is so because the poverty is extensive. It is not the poverty of half a dozen families, but of a whole district. The trials of a few mendicants could be relieved with ease, but how is this army of unfortunates to be raised from the depths of beggary? In one way only and that is by following the example of the sufferers themselves, and practising benevolence, at the expense of personal comfort. Every one should help to remedy such destitution as this. I am sure that no man however niggardly, could look upon that scene of desolation, and refuse to aid in remedying it.

The flood has wrought ruin so generally throughout the district, that it would be difficult to say where the worst spot is to be found. Perhaps the residents below the town of Penrith have sustained the greatest injury. The whole country in that direction has been overwhelmed. The restless waters have swept away everything that was moveable and within their reach. Fences are laid low, hay stacks are gone, barns are in ruins, houses are shattered or swept away, even the very land itself has been torn up by acres. Heaps of drift wood and immense beds of sand and mud cover the fields, and almost smother the buildings that remain. The roads are impassable, being covered with soft mud to the depth of three feet and more, and in some places washed into vast chasms. The river cannot be approached by horsemen, who have to keep on the high ground at the back, from whence they can see the destruction that has taken place. In any case, one cannot get farther than Yarramundi at present, as the country is so boggy. The people who were flooded out of their homes, have all returned to them—or rather to the sites of them. There are only two families now in the Penrith hospital, and they remain on account of the children being ill with the measles. Among those who have suffered most severely, I may mention the following persons.

The first on my list is George Barlow, a farmer, resident about two miles below Penrith. He is a married man and the father of a large family, but fortunately all his children are able to earn their own living. He himself has lost every thing that he possessed, and is in a state of abject destitution. His house has been swept away, and with it of course all his furniture and goods. He and his wife are now living with their neighbours, upon whom they are dependent for food and shelter.

The next case is that of a settler named Mason, who lives close to Barlow, and who has also lost his all. He is a married man, with a large family to support. His house has disappeared, and he has naught save the rags that cover him. He also is at present fed and clothed by persons living in the locality.

A farmer named Staunton, residing about four miles below the town, has lost all his furniture, &c. His house is standing, but it is so covered with drift and mud that nothing can be got out. He has a wife and family dependent upon him for support, and he is an utterly ruined man.

An elderly labouring man, named Joseph Griggs, who resides about five miles down the river, is in a most pitiable state. He has a wife and three helpless little ones. The flood swept away everything he had. Previous to the disaster he had a £1 note, and three shillings, which was all the money he possessed. When the flood went down he recovered the box in which he kept his money, and found the £1 note gone and the silver alone remaining. He has to begin the world afresh with three shillings in his pocket.

Mr. Rigney, a prosperous farmer residing upon his own freehold, which is situated about four and a half miles below Penrith, has lost a great deal of property. His furniture and goods are destroyed, and his horses, cattle, and pigs are drowned. His family is large, but most of them are able to help themselves.

John Byrnes, a labouring man, residing about four miles below Penrith, has lost everything he possessed. He has a wife and two or three children. He is very destitute.

Mr. Parsons, a storekeeper, living some distance down the river, has lost over £400 worth of goods.

A farmer, named John Tompkins, living some distance down the river, has lost everything. His goods are all either spoilt by the water or swept away entirely. He has a wife and family to prvide for.

Jeremiah Hansel, who is also a farmer, and lives close to Tompkins's place, is in a similar position to him. He has lost all, and has to commence the world afresh without money or goods.

A person, named Hadley, who cultivated a nice little farm of his own, about nine miles below Penrith, has lost his furniture and goods. Everything on his place was carried away, but he is said to be somewhat better off than many of his fellow-sufferers. He is a married man with a grown up family.

A farmer, named Childs, also residing about nine miles down, has been ruined by the flood. He is an old man, almost helpless, and nearly blind. His family is grown up and able to provide for their own wants. The old man himself is utterly ruined.

A Mrs. Lavender, who resides on a farm nine miles down the river, has lost everything. Her husband is up the country, where he has been for some time past. She has a young child, and was lying ill in bed when the flood came down upon her house. She got up into the loft, and when rescued by the boats had to be taken, with her infant, out through the roof. She was very weak and ill, but has since recovered. She has lost everything, and is now quite destitute.

James Anderson, a schoolmaster, residing next door to Mrs. Lavender, has lost all his property.

Mr. William Landers, a farmer, living about nine miles down the river, has lost all that was on his farm at the time of the flood. Everything was swept away.

Mr. Thomas Robinson, a well-to-do farmer, residing about the same distance down the river, lost everything except the clothes that he wore. The house went into the river with the bank on which it stood. Barns, stacks, fences, furniture, and produce, were all washed away. His loss has been very great.

Next door to Mr. Robinson, lives a farmer named Richard Stapleton, who has a wife and three children to provide for; he is a ruined man; his furniture and goods were swept away; his house stood, and is now surrounded by timber drifted against it. There are tons of drift around the building.

All the abovenamed persons are resident in the parish of Castlereagh alone, and they form but a tithe of the sufferers in that locality. Owing to the boggy state of the country, it was impossible to reach many places; in fact, only one or two could be visited. The Castlereagh township could not be reached at all, nor was it possible to get near the river. There are scores of persons, not mentioned in the above list, whose houses could not be visited at all. Barlow's and Landers' farm formed the extreme points, and from one to the other is nine miles. It was impossible to get below Landers', but I believe that constable Warren succeeded yesterday in getting to Yarramundi. No one would credit the state of the country, unless upon the evidence of his eyesight. Many houses have been carried into the river by landslips, others are still standing, but cracked and tottering. Half the barns in the district are washed away, and other buildings are shattered and broken in every direction. The river is on an average about half as wide again as it was before the flood, and in some places very extensive landslips have occurred. Five, eight, and, it is said, even as much as fifteen acres have been taken away at a sweep. Since the subsidence of the flood a large corner on the western side below the bridge has slipped away.

It is said that the house of a man, named Jeremiah Lang, residing at Bird's-eye Corner, has been entirely swept away. The place was about four miles down the river on the western bank. The man was a farmer and pretty well to do. He is elderly and has a wife and family. Lang has lost all he had in the world, and has to begin life afresh with nothing in his pocket.

In Norval's-lane the floods were severe, and many people were stripped of their property. A Mrs. Gale living there would not quit her house when the boat went for her, but took her children up into the loft, where she and they remained in safety until the flood abated. A family, named Stewart, living next door to Mrs. Gale, acted in a similar way. The father and mother refused to leave the house because one of their children was laid up with the measles. They remained in a loft, and when the boat went for them the water was up to the top of the verandah. They did not leave, however, but stayed there until the waters fell. A Mrs. Dorrington, or Baldwin, as she is called, resides in the same locality, and has lost everything. Her haystacks, cornshed, and furniture, are all gone, and she is now very poor. She has a family. A man, named Doolan, close by was flooded out. His things were washed away, but he managed to get a good many of them again.

The family of a farmer, named Joyce, residing at Regentville, above Penrith, had a narrow escape. They were rescued by boats which were only just in time to save them. Joyce, with his wife and mother and eight children, was saved. He has lost nearly all he possessed, and states his losses at about £500 worth of property. His house is still standing. Welsh—next door neighbour to Joyce—also had a narrow escape. He was a well-to-do farmer, with a wife and no family. He has lost everything. He stopped in his house to the very last moment, and when the boats were rescuing Joyce's family he hailed them and begged to be taken off. Poulton, Wilson, Hubbard, and others residing on the Woodriff's estate, Lower Penrith, have lost all they had in their houses. They lived close to the Peach-tree creek. Poulton, who has a wife and two or three small children, is a ruined man. Wilson is a butcher, and is better off. At Emu Plains many people were flooded out, and there is a good deal of distress among them. The house of constable Rutledge, on the Western bank was nearly washed away, and would have been, had it not been fastened with chains to the bridge. A house next to it fell into the river, and now lies just below the bridge with the gables out of water. Constable Rutledge has lost everything.

There were some very narrow escapes, and had not the Government boats been sent up there would no doubt have been great loss of life. A couple of boats ought to be kept at Penrith in readiness for such emergencies.

The river is falling slowly but is still about ten feet above its ordinary level. No traffic except that of foot passengers is permitted to cross the bridge, and travellers have to get their goods conveyed over the river in boats. There are four boats constantly at work. Horses are made to swim across, and in doing so there is some little risk, as they are carried a long way down the stream, and landed on the island below the bridge. They have another short swim to the main land, and thus the passage of the river is to the poor animals a work of danger and difficulty. The men engaged in this work are reaping a rich harvest, as the prices they charge are most exorbitant. Most of them are evidently unused to aquatics, and are almost as awkward in a boat as a wild bull is said to be in a china shop. Their labours at the oars combine the maximum of energy with the minimum of skill, and consequently the course taken by each boat in fording the river is singularly eccentric. A number of police on their way to Bathurst crossed the day before yesterday, and had much difficulty in swimming their horses, owing to the strong current. It was nightfall before they got clear of the river, although they commenced the work early in the morning. The piles of the old bridge began to show above water yesterday morning, and they are now three feet out. From the manner in which the flood has washed away the banks of the river, it would seem as if the stream were changing its course. It is taking away the western bank below the bridge, and the chief strength of the current is now upon that side, although the main channel is on the eastern side of the bed. The sandbank on the island has been raised several feet, and from the break of the water between the island and the eastern bank it is evident that the channel there has been dammed up to a considerable extent. Some idea may be formed as to the violence of the current, when it is stated that the whole of the soil and gravel at the bottom of the river has been swept away to within three feet of the rock. The foundations of the stone piers are therefore nearly bare, and the tiers of piles that were washed away must have had all the earth taken from around them. Strata of soil and gravel, twenty-six feet in depth, have been swept away, and the river bank on the western side, for a distance of 139 feet back from its original slope, has disappeared.

The difficulty of procuring suitable timber has prevented the repair of the western approach to the bridge. Beams, eighty feet long, are required, and are now being obtained from Liverpool. The plan adopted for bringing the sunken portion to its proper level is this. Eight beams, each eighty feet long, will be laid across from the stone pier to the outermost tier of the approach. The piles which have been washed away will not be replaced—they could not be, in fact, as there is no bottom to hold them. After the beams have been laid, the depression of the arch will be removed by the use of iron ties—three to each beam—and screw bolts. The ends of the upper ties will rise above the level of the roadway and catch the ends of the beams, through the centre of which thick bolts will pass to keep them from curving. This will make the bridge quite strong enough for traffic, and the train will in all probability be able to run over it within the next ten days. The ties are to be of flat iron, 3 inches by 1, and altogether they will weigh about thirty tons. Of course, these repairs will be merely temporary. The bridge is to be permanently strengthened by the erection of three stone piers similar to those now supporting the main bridge, to carry the approach. This will effectually prevent damage from future floods. When this bridge was in course of erection it was thought that the western bank would increase instead of decrease. It has been noticed that slight freshes in the Nepean deposit large quantities of soil on that side. It now appears that a high flood carries away those deposits, and washes the western bank with a great scour.

THE FLOODS AT ARALUEN.

(From a Correspondent of the Braidwood Dispatch.)

IT is my painful duty to have to record another flood, being the fifth we have been visited with within a period of three months. This flood has been a more severe one than any of the four which occurred prior to it. It commenced raining on Tuesday, which gradually increased in force during the night, and on Wednesday morning the main creek and its tributaries rose rapidly, the rain continuing to fall steadily all Wednesday. Thursday night we had a strong wind, which came in fearful gusts, accompanied by very heavy showers. The rain continued falling without intermission, and at times with fearful violence, until Sunday morning (in all five days rain), during which period the main creek rose and fell several times, the current continually varying in its course, which made it very trying for the claim owners, who could scarcely tell where to defend themselves from the point of attack. In many of the claims men were engaged night and day in endeavouring to protect their works from the creek breaking in upon them, and were most indefatigable in their exertions repairing and stopping up vulnerable places in their dams as the water began to tell upon them, with boughs, sand, bags, blankets, and anything they could lay their hands upon. By these means many of the claims were saved from destruction, others again in spite of all these precautions have been filled in. The main creek never ran with more terrific force than on this occasion, and it is surprising that more damage was not done, and that any claims at all escaped its ravages. Commencing at the Chinamen's claim at Upper Araluen, which was saved by dint of great exertion on the part of "John," who worked hard to secure their dam; this preserved Warren and Co.'s, Bishop and Co.'s, and O'Brien's, but at the same time it shot the current of water over to the point of land at the foot of the mountain road, where the creek has formed a channel for itself, nearly carrying away Mr. Armstrong's house, which was only prevented by their forming a wing dam of palings, boughs, &c., which turned it off into the garden, thence it took a turn again into its old channel, sweeping away the road, gardens, huts, fences, &c., making great havoc, carrying away Hickey and Co.'s dam, and the Perseverance dam also, burying their engine which the force of the current playing against has turned over. The creek still retaining the full force of its current on the western side nearly made its way into Blatchford's claim, but fortunately when within a few yards it changed its course, and this saved it from being broken into. May and Co., Berridge and Co., Piggott and Co., M'Cann and Co., have so far escaped as to be only filled with water, no very extensive or material damage having been done to the tail races, &c. Pepper and Co. are filled in the creek making a clean breast right through their claim, and it was with difficulty the engine was saved. Freeman and Co. and Brogan and Co.'s claims are completely filled in and the engines buried; Knight and Co.'s and Gibson and Co.'s claims are also all levelled, and all the claims from here to Crown Flat and Mudmelong have suffered more or less. This is only a slight sketch of the damage done to a few of the claims, &c. To attempt to put a value upon it would be almost impossible. It will cause an outlay of many thousands to put the claims in the same position as they were this day week (Monday). The most unfortunate and trying circumstance in connection with these floods is, that sufficient time elapses between each to enable the claims to get in such a state of repair and forwardness as to be able to either commence washing or to be just about doing so. The claimholders have shown a vast amount of perseverance and spirit in the way in which they have, time after time, opened up their claims, to be again filled by one flood after another, and they deserve praise for the energy and capital which have been expended by them nothing daunted by their repeated misfortunes. Not only has the loss fallen upon and been felt by them to the tune of many thousands of pounds, but the miner, the working man, has also been a sufferer by these disastrous floods to a great extent by his having now been out of employment for the last two weeks, during which period their sufferings and privations have been great, and at the same time manfully met. The bulk of the men employed here in the mines are married men, men who have been for some time (many for a lengthened period) working in the Valley. They have their little homes, their wives, and families about them, and are not in a position to remove. The improvident have been long in want, at the same time we must not ignore the privation and sufferings of the children on that head. The provident have most of them exhausted their little resources. The storekeepers, butchers, and bakers are not in a position to extend their credit. What is to be done? This is not an evil that has been brought on by themselves, by any misunderstanding with their employers, nor by any falling off of the works on account of the unproductiveness of the mines, but by circumstances over which no human being could have any control. The sympathy of the public has already been called to their aid, and let us hope that the additional distress which must be inevitable consequent upon the late flood, will induce our Sydney friends to open their hearts; but little has been as yet received from there or from any other district.

The Floods Relief Committee met on Tuesday and Friday last, and have, up to the present time, relieved ninety-eight applicants, and issued 150 rations. The amount of subscriptions received up to date is only £135. This will soon be expended, but they hope to have the amount speedily supplemented. No answer has yet been received from the Government further than that the matter is now before the law officers of the Crown, and I trust the answer may be a favourable one.

We have had a narrow escape of being obliged to go without bread, only two days' consumption of flour remained this morning in the Valley. Two loads, however, arrived this afternoon to be followed by more to-morrow.

THE FLOOD AT WELLINGTON.

WE have been favoured with the following extract from a letter received this day, from Wellington:—

"On Thursday night the river commenced rising very fast, and continued rising until Saturday, by which time the few dry spots about the lower part of the town were surrounded by a wide stretching sea. That mythical personage, 'the oldest inhabitant,' remembers nothing like it.

"The Macquarie, on the Wellington side, backed up the Bell water, and spread over the flat fronting the town to the depth of about three feet. It was up to the posts in front of Parsons' Hotel, and the cellars of the Australian Stores escaped being flooded by a few inches only. One or two houses have been washed away from the bank of the river. Paddy the Chinaman's house, fences, and all, have been carried off, and nothing but the bent and broken fruit trees are left to mark the spot 'where once a garden smiled.' Over at Montefiore's it rose up to Sorwell's door, and made an island of the Commissioner's quarters.

"The free selectors about Ponto have had to take to the mountains, several of their farms having been completely inundated.

"Eleven hundred sheep, it is reported, have been swept away at Murrumbidgee.

"No lives have been lost here, but two families at Burrandong are drowned. Out of eleven persons in one family who were shepherding for Blunden, only the father and two children have been saved. I also hear that a family have been drowned near Dubbo.

"I fear the next news we get from down the river will be most disastrous,—for hundreds of miles it will be a wide-spread sea of desolation.

"For our part we have great reason to be thankful it is no worse."

THE LATE GALE.

PUBLIC MEETING AT NEWCASTLE.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

IN compliance with a requisition signed by the members of the committee appointed by the meeting of Saturday last, a second public meeting, convened by the Mayor, was held in the Court-house on Thursday evening, at half-past 7 o'clock, for the purpose of receiving the resignation of the committee referred to, and also to take steps to carry out the object of the former meeting. The Mayor presided, and about two hundred and fifty persons were present.

The CHAIRMAN commenced proceedings by reading the requisition, in compliance with which he had called them together. He regretted exceedingly that there should be any occasion for a meeting of the kind, inasmuch as their object was a purely charitable one, and could only be attained by their working amicably together. It would perhaps be as well before proceeding with the matters now before them to recapitulate the circumstances under which the former meeting had been called. When the Bungaree went out to the life-boat, and as soon as she had got the men safely on board, it was suggested that the services of her crew should be recognised in some shape or other, and for the purpose of carrying out this object he had been asked to call a meeting. Impromptu, and without waiting to receive the usual requisition, he did so, at the same time telling Mr. R. H. Grierson to draw up resolutions, and take all the necessary preliminary steps to obtain means to reward the crew of the Bungaree, who had been the means of saving their fellow-creatures; as well as to give the men belonging to the lifeboat some consideration for the sufferings they had endured in the cause of humanity. At that time there was no knowledge of the unfortunate event that had occurred in the boat. Hence the resolutions were drawn up in accordance with the original intention of the promoters; but as soon as the occurrence in the lifeboat became known it was decided to give precedence to the case of the widow, subordinating the object for which the meeting had been originally convened. Thus, when the resolutions referred to had been so altered to meet the different circumstances of the case, it was thought by the committee rather ungracious of the meeting to pass the fifth resolution, which they considered could only impede their movements, and take from them all discretionary power in reference to the appropriation or distribution of the funds collected. It was not for him, however, to express an opinion on that point, but he hoped that those who came there with different views to the committee would keep in mind the primary object of the meeting, and endeavour to carry it out, so that the widow and orphans should not suffer from any misunderstanding that might have arisen among themselves. He was now prepared to receive any resolutions from those present.

The Rev. Mr. BODE said, as the member of the committee whose name appeared first on the requisition, he would like to say a few words. He believed he expressed the feeling of all present when he said he regretted the slight misunderstanding which had arisen, for by this time the widow of the unfortunate man who died in the lifeboat should have received from them some tangible token of their sympathy—something more substantial than mere words. He had certainly seen with the greatest surprise the resolution passed by the meeting of Saturday, after his departure. It had been proposed that the committee should be appointed, and certain things left to their discretion. Mr. Taylor had asked the chairman the question embodied in the resolution in reference to the apportionment of the funds collected, and it was distinctly explained then that this matter would, to a great extent, be left to the discretion of the committee. The meeting expressed itself perfectly satisfied with this explanation, and passed unanimously the resolution then before it, and upon which no amendment was proposed. Thus he thought that when the power of apportioning the money had been once delegated to the committee, such a motion as that of Mr. Brown's could only be regarded as tantamount to a vote of want of confidence in them. It would appear so at any rate. Now he, in common with the remainder of the committee, did not wish to move in the matter at all unless their fellow-citizens had full confidence in them. Their only objects were—first, to provide amply for the widow and children, and then, if anything remained, to devote it towards rewarding the exertions their fellow-townsmen on board the Bungaree had made to rescue the crew of the lifeboat. He believed that the meeting held the same views, and were of opinion that the widow's cause should be brought prominently before the public before any other steps were taken. Her cause should be the chief object of their care, and he believed that the crews of both the Bungaree and lifeboat were of the same opinion. Money, he knew, could not reward the services they had rendered—a badge or medal of some kind would be more appropriate; and he knew by what these brave men had done that they would prize it more. While every one present was in favour of the actual object of the meeting, they held different opinions as to the best means of carrying it out; and the committee believed that three lists would militate against their operations being successful. In the first place, whatever each list contained would have to be devoted to the purpose for which it had been given; and thus it might so happen that they would not be able to collect enough to place the widow beyond want, while there would be a large sum on the testimonial lists, and, vice versa. But how would they stand if there were one general fund? If the widow were properly provided for, all would go to her until such a result had been attained; and then only would the testimonial fund be taken into consideration. He assured the meeting that the committee were not acting in an arbitrary spirit in sending in their resignations; and he hoped that the course they had deemed it their duty to pursue would not deter the meeting from carrying out its original object.

At the request of Mr. C. Bolton, Mr. Geo. Wallace read the resolutions adopted by the previous meeting, which have already been published in the columns of the Herald.

Mr. BROWN combatted the arguments of Mr. Bode, and contended that his resolution could not possibly have the effect imputed to it. There could be no doubt, also, that the resolutions brought forward by the promoters of the first meeting, and passed previous to its adoption, did not, nor could not, if adhered to, carry out the expressed intention of these gentlemen. Therefore he had brought forward his motion, certainly not because he had not confidence in the committee, but because he wished to point out some definite course for them to pursue; and one, too, that would prevent any cavilling afterwards on the part of the public at the way the money had been appropriated. He hoped that the committee would re-consider their determination of resigning, and not persist in pursuing a course that could not possibly have any good result, and he also trusted that that meeting would be the last of the kind ever held in Newcastle. He thought the difficulties of the case could be met by moving "That a new committee be appointed to carry out the objects of the former meeting, and that in such committee be included the names of those of the former committee who have resigned, and who may be still willing to serve."

The motion lapsed for want of a seconder.

The Rev. Mr. PRITCHARD then moved—"That the committee appointed at the public meeting held in the

THE SYDNEY MORNING HERALD, SATURDAY, JUNE 29, 1867.

Courthouse, Newcastle, on June 22nd, for the purpose of carrying out the objects of the said meeting having resigned their resignation be accepted.

Mr. G. W. TAYLOR seconded the motion.

After considerable discussion the motion was withdrawn in favour of the following:—Moved by Alderman ADAMS and seconded by Mr TAYLOR, "That the committee requested for the present to confine their subscription lists to giving aid to the widow and orphans of John Williams."

Mr. GEORGE WALLACE said he would propose an amendment that would put the whole point at issue before the meeting, viz.,—"That the fifth resolution passed at the meeting of Saturday last be now rescinded."

Mr. JAMES HANNELL seconded the amendment, which, after some discussion, was put and carried.

Mr. Adams's motion was also put and carried, and the proceedings terminated shortly after 11 o'clock.

THE PROCEEDINGS AGAINST JUDGE BOOTHBY.

(From the S. A. Register, June 17th.)

IT appears that the charges which have been laid against Mr. Justice Boothby are five in number, as detailed below. These charges were first sent to the Judge on June the 6th, by the Chief Secretary, who said—"I am directed by his Excellency the Governor-in-Chief to inform you that the following very grave charges against you in the administration of your office as one of the Judges of the Supreme Court have been preferred by the late Attorney-General, Mr. James Penn Boucaut." Then follow the charges, at the conclusion of which the Chief Secretary says:—"I am also to inform you that his Excellency, deeply impressed with the seriousness of these charges, has determined to have them investigated by the Governor and Council of the province, under the authority of the Imperial Act of 22 Geo. III., c. 75, and that such investigation shall take place at an early date, of which you will receive due notice. I am further to inform you that his Excellency has issued a Commission to his Honor the Chief Justice to preside at the next Civil Sittings of the Supreme Court, to be held on the 11th instant."

The next letter is dated June 14, and is as follows:—

"Executive Council Office, Adelaide,
"June 14, 1867.

"Sir,—I am directed by his Excellency the Governor-in-Chief to inform you that he has brought under the consideration of the Executive Council the charges made against you for misbehaviour in the administration of your office of a Judge of the Supreme Court of South Australia, by the late Attorney-General, Mr. James Penn Boucaut, and of which you were apprised by letter from the Hon. the Chief Secretary on the 6th instant, such charges being as follows:—

"1. Conduct and language contumacious and disrespectful to the Court of Appeals, and obstructive to the said Court in the performance of its duties.

"2. Perverse refusal to recognise the authority of Parliament, and to administer the laws of the province.

"3. Expressions on the Bench disparaging and insulting the Legislature, the Government, and the institutions of the province, and language and behaviour on the Bench calculated to bring the administration of justice into contempt.

"4. Language on the Bench offensive and irritating to the other Judges, and public denial of their authority.

"5. Allowing private and personal feeling to interfere with the fair and impartial administration of justice.

"His Excellency and Council have also had under their consideration a further charge against your Honor, of having assumed a position inconsistent with the equal administration of justice, and which in certain events would put a stop to the exercise of the functions of the Supreme Court—such charge being contained in a letter from their Honors the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Gwynne to his Excellency the Governor, dated 24th April last, of which a copy is subjoined:—

"'Supreme Court, April 24th, 1867.

"'Sir,—We have the honour to address your Excellency on the subject of the course adopted by Mr. Justice Boothby at the recent sittings of the Court. It will not be necessary to recapitulate the various methods in which he has endeavoured to assert his claim to be the sole rightful Judge, as your Excellency will probably have been made aware of these from the Hon. the Attorney-General. It is sufficient to say that not merely are his remarks personally offensive and insulting to ourselves, intended to lower us in the public opinion, and calculated to produce that effect, but the position he has assumed is inconsistent with the equal administration of justice, since it would lead him in every case, irrespective of the merits of the question, to decide in favour of the defendant; and it would, in the event of any circumstances preventing the attendance of either of ourselves, put a stop to the exercise of the functions of the Court.

"'We felt this so strongly that, having to meet his Honor to confer upon one subject submitted to us by the Hon. the Attorney-General, we adjourned the Court in order that we might take the same opportunity of endeavouring to come to some understanding that should enable the business of the Court to be carried on without a repetition of the proceedings of which we complained. Unhappily, however, that interview failed to produce any result, as Mr. Justice Boothby refused even to discuss the proposal to make other arrangements with a view to the more satisfactory administration of justice on the Equity site of the Court, and expressed his determination in every case that he might deem of sufficient importance to repeat his warnings and protests.

"'We feel that we have no right on the ground of personal annoyance, or difficulties in the administration of justice caused by an obstruction which unitedly we can overrule, to close the Court against suitors, which would practically be the result of our declining to sit with Mr. Boothby; and, therefore, we have no alternative but to bring the matter under the notice of your Excellency with a view to the adoption of such remedial measures as it may be in the power of your Excellency's Government to apply.

"'We have the honour to be, Sir,
"'Your Excellency's obedient servants,
"'R. D. HANSON, C.J.
"'E. CASTRES GWYNNE, J.

"'His Excellency Sir D. Daly, Knight, &c., &c.'

"His Excellency and the Council considering the gravity of the above charges—any of them if established being sufficient to render your Honor liable to amotion from your office for misbehaviour, under the Imperial Statute 25 Geo. III., caput 74—have determined to hold an investigation of such charges, with a view, should it be found necessary, of exercising the powers vested in the Governor and Council under such Statute.

"I am further directed to inform your Honor that his Excellency and the Executive Council will proceed with the investigation of such charges at Government House, Adelaide, on Monday, 24th June instant, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and to request your Honor's attendance at such investigation; and respectfully to intimate to your Honor that in the event of your Honor neglecting to attend at such time and place, the investigation will be proceeded with in your absence as in case of default.

"It is the intention of his Excellency and the Council to receive such oral and documentary evidence as may be tendered during the investigation, either in support of the charges or on your Honor's behalf, and they will also be ready to hear counsel either in support of or in answer to the charges.

"I am also directed to transmit to your Honor the enclosed list of some cases which the Governor and Council are informed will be relied upon in support of the charges, such list showing the dates and names of the cases, and the charges which they will be principally relied on to support, but which cases may be referred to in support of any such charges.

"I am further directed to state that the Governor and Council are also informed that it may be necessary in the course of the inquiry to refer to other decisions of your Honor, of the other Judges, and of the Court of Appeals, than those mentioned in the enclosed list, as well as to dicta of your Honor in such other cases, in order to explain the position taken by your Honor in the cases enumerated.

"I have, &c., your most obedient servant,
"SAMUEL DEERING,
"Clerk of Executive Council.

"His Honor Benjamin Boothby, Esq., Judge of the Supreme Court, South Australia."

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—Seeing that one of your correspondents is inquiring, in to-day's paper, for the receipt of the composition for waterproofing walls, which you kindly published some few months since, I send you a copy of the receipt.

Since it was last published I have received strong testimony from several quarters as to its efficiency.

Yours, &c.,
July 28th. RULE.

REMEDY FOR DAMP WALLS.—Three-quarters of a pound of mottled soap to one gallon of water. This composition to be laid over the brickwork steadily and carefully with a large flat brush, so as not to form a froth or lather on the surface. The wash to remain twenty-four hours, to become dry.

Mix half a pound of alum with four gallons of water. Leave it to stand for twenty-four hours, and then apply it in the same manner over the coating of soap. Let this be done in dry weather.

BOARD OF AGRICULTURE.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—I have for some time past advocated the establishment in Sydney of an Agricultural and Grazing Society, and I am glad to find that the able writer of the articles which appear in your paper headed "Lands," is of the same opinion, as well as many others; and also that, at last, some of the leading men of the country are beginning to adopt similar views. I therefore submit the following proposition to them and the public for consideration; trusting that it may at least lead to further efforts, or to some superior plan being adopted to carry out so very desirable an object, viz: the improvement and supporting of our agricultural and grazing pursuits for on these being worked in the best and most economical system depends, in a great measure, the present health, happiness, prosperity, and morality of the people, and the future wealth and position of a community soon to become a nation. There can be no doubt but that a certain, a plentiful, and cheap supply of food to the workman regulates the power of successful home competition with foreign manufactories, and affords, in consequence, the most natural and the truest and best Protection that can be established, for it benefits all sections of a community without injury to any.

This great interest, the most important of any—employing more than 13 per cent. of the population, directly in the production and management, and indirectly influencing, more or less, the remaining portion of the people, yields upwards of £16,000,000 in value per annum, of wool, wheat, meat, hides, hay, fruit, butter, poultry, vegetables, tallow, wine, corn, pork, and bacon, &c., which I am ready to prove at any moment.

Most civilised countries enjoy the benefits and advantages of a minister of agriculture, or societies to guard and watch this important branch of industry. Here we have neither; but it is left entirely to a few isolated district societies which, however praiseworthy they may be, and locally useful they are, lose more than half their value and efficacy for the want of a central directory to render them generally useful and advantageous to the country at large.

There is a strong disinclination among many to admit Government interference in these matters;—yet, as I feel assured, that without Government assistance no society in a young community will be long supported, or impartially and usefully conducted, I beg to submit the following mixed arrangement, by which the subscribers to the society, from being in a majority of two to one, can, if they will make the effort, maintain a wholesome control—and the Government feel secure that their money is fairly and usefully expended for the general welfare.

The Society to be formed and supported by subscription—and to be called—The Board of Agriculture of New South Wales.

The subscribers to elect their President and Vice-President.

That a Board shall be organised in Sydney, the chairman of which shall be the Minister of Lands.

That this Board shall consist of twelve members, four of whom (one being the secretary) shall be nominated by the Crown, and eight by the subscribers.

That the secretary shall be appointed and paid by the Government.

That his duties shall be to attend daily at his office during customary hours; to afford to enquirers all the information they may be requested; to keep a record of all transactions, and to carry on the correspondence; to collect and arrange plans, specimens, models, statistics, books, &c., connected with the agricultural and pastoral interests, and to construct models showing the geological formation and features of the various districts, with the most approved system of working them, and the best plan of draining and irrigation. To induce owners and manufacturers of the many engines and implements useful to, or employed in these arts, to send small models to scale of them for exhibition; and then to explain or lecture on their relative capabilities, in a room which ought, in my opinion, to be attached to the Museum, andopen to the public at the same hours. To keep a stud-book for thorough-bred horses, cattle, and stud sheep—a meterological register, and any other useful ones.

To hold a monthly meeting of the board and members of the society, for the discussion of all subjects connected with the objects of the society—to read papers from contributors, to investigate proposed improvements, or to obtain the information acquired from the experience of others, and then to publish this valuable information in a pamphlet for distribution.

A general and intercolonial exhibition to be held annually in one of the grass squares of Hyde Park; with liberal prizes. If this is well arranged and properly managed, the admission money with the subscriptions will fully cover all expenses, for from the exhibition being so readily accessible at any hour, to the large surrounding population with the facilities afforded by the easy and ready transport from all parts of the country to Sydney, both for exhibitors and visitors; and the absence of all local jealousies, will ensure a very numerous, most interesting, and varied assembly of exhibits, which will cause the exhibition to become popular, useful, instructive, and well supported.

This metropolitan exhibition will not in any way interfere with the district show, but rather stimulate them to endeavour, by increased exertions, to maintain an equal position; by which a greater field will be opened for exhibitors, and enable them to obtain a fairer reward for their skill, liberality, and exertions.

I estimate the outlay for the furniture and fittings for the rooms and offices at £300.

And the annual outlay for the secretary, stationery and postage, purchase of books, papers, and construction of models, at £500.

This would be a small sum to invest—and a trifling annual expense for so good a cause—a cause in which every man, woman, and child is daily interested, and more or less depending upon, for their social enjoyments and a contented home.

FOOT ROT IN SHEEP.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—In some of your papers of late dates attention has been drawn to certain specifics for the cure of that well-known disease among sheep, "foot rot." One of your correspondents asks the "cause" of the disease.

This is beginning with the subject at the proper end,—affording an opportunity to those versed in the matter, and who have had practical experience with its details, to give (if so disposed) to the sheep farmer their opinions as to its cause, prevention, and cure—leaving it to them to adopt or reject the advice offered as to them may seem best. With a desire to be of service to those who may be troubled with this disease among their flocks I offer these few remarks and suggestions, arrived at after a period of twenty years' active and practical management of sheep.

Foot-rot is fistulous. The primary causes for its appearance are many—principally it begins either after, or during, continuous rains, when the sheep are exposed to much surface water during the day and dirty yards, (or, more properly speaking), bogs at night. During the day, some one or more sustain a slight cut or bruise to the foot or feet. This may be caused either by retaining particles of grass between the claws, and either treading upon these themselves, or being trodden upon by others of the flock, the grass acts as a knife upon the now-softened foot, makes a cut; this opening fills with dirt, and is the initiation of disease; or, the feet of the sheep may be stone-bruised; the dog may round sheep up, upon a sharp or stoney spot, and their feet be injured; from whatever cause, there can be no doubt, but that the foot of the sheep must first be cut or injured before symptoms of foot rot exhibit themselves.

Had the wound been cleansed and the injured sheep kept apart from the flock for a day or two, months, perhaps years, of tedious toil and trouble would have been avoided. Many of our sheep farmers never think of this. The sheep are placed at night in yards some inches (I was going to say feet) deep in animal soil in a state of fermentation from the wet. Such a camp for an uninjured foot would be bad enough, how much more must it effect a wound of the size and nature described.

Thus day after day the sheep are taken out and kept up to the flock by the dog, and instead of mending, the number of injured or lame sheep increase, principally because they are subject to this excessively heated, although wet bed, at night.

Keeping more to the point. The foot becomes filled with dirt. The juices or foul matter of the soil upon which they bed at night are absorbed into the blood, and rapid, yet certain, are the strides of disease. Thus from a simple cut, neglected, if ever noticed, arises one of the most difficult complaints with which the sheep farmer has to contend. Follow the cut through its course, and we find it closes up, and to all appearance is sound; but beneath that skin lie many particles of dirt, irritating and inflaming all the surrounding parts, until, to relieve itself, it breaks, discharging a highly virulent pus, capable of inoculating any number of feet that it may come in contact with. As this disease progresses it assumes many forms—the foot becomes enlarged, swollen, and violently inflamed. If left to nature these symptoms may decrease, but never entirely disappear. The claws of the foot flatten and grow in all shapes, the tread or soles of the feet decay, grow again, each new formation prevented from becoming a sound and permanent growth by the presence of foreign matter, not visible upon cursory observation.

Some of my readers may ask, How is it that we have seen sheep afflicted without any of these premonitory symptoms? Simply because the affected sheep have been upon the same run, if not in the same yards, previously occupied by sheep suffering from "foot rot." They have been inoculated with the pus left by their predecessors. This pus retains its contaminating power for a very long time, more especially when mixed with the soil of the yards.

So far as my experience has led me I believe that foot rot is nothing more than a neglected sore, caused in the first place by some trifling accident; it remains unheeded, and from its position so subject to the introduction of irritating matter prevents its healing, but precipitates itself into a foul ulcerating wound—the discharges from which, by their violence and activity in acting, spread the disease rapidly through the flock. It is not the growth of a day, but the seed once sown is certain to develop itself. What the shepherd reports as a few "lame ones," are are long reported "short," or left upon the run unable to travel. The enemy is at work and unless speedy and active action be taken, serious will be the loss.

In my present letter I do not intend to touch more upon the subject than simply give my opinion of the "cause" from its most primitive origin, but should it be agreeable to your readers, and if you will kindly afford me space, I would be happy to continue the [illegible], further, through the stages of "prevention" and "cure."

Meantime I remain, Sir, yours truly,
June, 1867. G. C. G.

SIR,—Your correspondent "Domus" will find the particulars sought for in the Sydney Mail, of 27th October, 1866, page 10, column 5.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—Kindly allow me, through the medium of your valuable journal, to draw the attention of the municipal authorities to the filthy state of a right-of-way in Sussex-street, near King-street, and immediately adjacent to Pritchard's Steam Flour Mills. A board has been erected in a conspicuous enough position, to be seen by all persons in the neighbourhood, cautioning, on pain of penalty, persons from depositing rubbish, &c., but, despite this, they may be seen casting out all sorts of offensive substances, such as night-soil, decayed vegetables, &c., thereby causing a disagreeable, nauseous, and unhealthy smell throughout the vicinity. Trusting that the matter will be looked into,

I am, yours respectfully,
OLFA.

The amount of business done in the stock and share market during the past week has been smaller than usual, and buyers less disposed to operate in some stocks which were lately in most request, unless lower rates are accepted. Commercial Bank shares continue saleable at 56, and Joint Stocks at 13. New South Wales opened at 46, but being offered freely 45¼ was accepted, and one sale is reported as low as 45, at which rate there are buyers. City's are rather firmer, and have not been done below 10¼. A. S. N. shares are again weaker, sales at 10¼ and 10½. United Insurance are improving, and brought 15s. Mining companies, except coal, are neglected. Wallsends were placed at 6¾. For Peak Downs Copper, 19s. 6d. to 20s., has been the selling rate. A fair amount of New South Wales Government debentures were sold at 88 ex interest for terminables, and 86 for interminables, the latter being a considerable advance on latest sales in England. Queensland Treasury bills are scarce, 107 was obtained for some due in 1869, and 101 for New Zealand Government 8s due this year.

The following table will show the closing quotations of the Stock and Share market, and the rates at which business has been done during the week.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench have sold by auction and private contract during the week the following properties:—House of five rooms, corner of Castlereagh-street South and Rutland-street, £650—Mr. T. Frost, purchaser. House, No. 76, Buckingham-street, £250; 60 acres of land, Smithfield Road, Fairfield, £145—Mr. J. Mackel, purchaser. Allotment, 40 feet frontage, Blue's Point Estate, North Shore, 20s. per foot—Mr. W. T. Muston, purchaser. Allotments, North Kingston, Newtown, 25s. per foot. Allotments on the Berrima Road, town of Sutton Forest North, £14 each. Block of land, Kirketon Estate, 50 feet frontage to the Darlinghurst Road, for £650 cash, or £13 per foot—Mr. J. Hardie, purchaser.

A meeting of shareholders of the Peak Downs Copper Mining Co. was held to-day, at Mr. Huntley's office, pursuant to adjournment, to receive the report of the deputation appointed to draw up a resolution in substitution of Clause 50 of Company's Deed of Settlement. The deputation reported that they had waited on Mr. Smart, and had been enabled to make a most favourable arrangement for all parties, and which would have the effect of setting at rest for ever the doubtful position of preferential and non-preferential shareholders. The resolution, which was unanimously adopted, was to the following effect:—The profits to be divided—first, in paying to the shares No. 66,667 and upwards interest at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, from date of their advances; secondly, in paying to the shares No. 1 to 66,666 dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, from date of advances, by contributing shareholders. At every subsequent meeting, when profits are declared, the same course to be pursued as regards payment of 8 per cent.,—first, to contributing shareholders, and afterwards 8 per cent. to the other shareholders; and if at any time any deficiency should arise to either description of shares, such description to be considered as due, and to be made up out of first profits. The shares No. 66,667 and upwards to be the first paid.

Messrs. A. Moore and Co. held to-day an important sale of wines and spirits in the estate of the late Mr. Toogood. There was a large attendance, and considering that the terms were net cash, fair prices were obtained. The principal lines realised the following rates: Duty paid goods—old port, 25s. to 40s. per case; fine sherries, 35s. to 38s.; sherry, in wood, 8s. 6d. to 10s. 3d.; Marzetti's brandy, 26s. 6d.; pint stout, 7s.; Dawson's bottled ale, 6s. 9d.; Byass's stout, 9s.; Bass's triangle ale, 9s.; Hennessy's case brandy, 46s.; Clozeau's, 36s. 6d.; geneva key brand, 32s.; Bonded goods: Martell's dark brandy, 5s. 11d. to 6s. 1d.; geneva, key brand, 9s. 3d., half-cases, 4s. 6d.; Burnett's old tom, 15s. 3d.; Pim's, 13s.; Preston's rum, 3s. 6d.; port wine, 3s. 2d.

At Messrs. Fotheringham and Mullen's sale only a limited business was done, and the bulk of the goods offered were passed. Valencia raisins realised 6¾d.; Tasmanian jams, 7d. per lb.; inferior North Wilts cheese, 7½d.; Launceston flour sold, with all faults, £8 10s. to £8 17s. 6d.; Linklater's fresh herrings, 1-lb. tins, 7½d. per lb., 2-lb. ditto, 6½d.; ling, ditto, 5½d.; cod roe, 5d.; ling roe, 4d. Several small lines of sugars were also placed at fair market rates.

Owing to the high rates of freight ruling for England, the purchases of tallow at to-day's produce sale were confined to local requirements, and prices ruled about 10s. per ton below those obtained last week. First heavy and extra weight hides commanded full rates, light weight and inferior descriptions were not much sought after. 173 casks of tallow were disposed of at £38 5s. to £39 15s. for mutton, £35 10s. to £36 for best beef, £33 to £34 5s for second quality, and £29 to £32 10s. for inferior. The sales of hides amounted to about 1300, of which first heavy and extra weights brought 12s. to 16s. 6d.; medium, 8s. 9d. to 11s.; inferior and light, 4s. 9d. to 8s. 3d.; 137 calfskins, 2s. 3d. to 4s. 9d.; yearlings, 5s. 6d. to 8s. 5d.

Particulars of the sales were as follows:—

By Messrs. Harrison and Jones: WY, 5 casks tallow at £32 15s., 2 at £30 10s., 3 at £33; 41 heavy hides at 13s. 6d.; 69 medium at 10s. 6d.; 22 dry at 8s. 3d.

By Messrs. Irwin and Turner: GW&Co., 10 casks beef tallow at £33 10s.; F, 6 at £32 10s.; FC, 6 at £34; JM, 6 at £33 10s., 27 at £30 15s. to £36; 2 casks mutton, £38 5s. to £39 15s.; 86 heavy hides at 12s. 6d. to 16s. 6d.; 86 medium at 9s. to 10s. 6d; 124 inferior at 4s. 9d. to 8s. 3d.; 17 yearlings at 8s. 3d.; 24 calfskins at 2s. 9d. to 3s.

By Messrs. Mort and Co.: GRE, 16 casks beef tallow at £32 15s. to £34 5s.; RC, 5 at £33 5s.; P in circle, 20 at £33 10s.; 6 at £32 10s., 2 at £33 10s., 1 at £29; 200 heavy hides at 12s. to 13s. 3d., 90 medium, 9s. to 11s., 18 inferior at 5s. to 5s. 6d. 27 bags chopped wattle bark at £3 15s.

By Mr. Ebsworth: 3 casks mutton tallow at £38, 6 casks beef at £32 5s. to £33 5s.; 32 hides at 8s. 9d. to 9s. 9d.

Mr. Reid disposed of a few lots of medium and light weight hides at 9s. to 11s. 6d.

The import markets continue depressed; but, as the roads in the interior are reported as becoming more fit for traffic, an improvement in trade is looked for. Our usual market review will be published in Monday's issue, for the Panama mail.

The damage by the fire which occurred at Messrs. Thompson and Giles's drapery establishment, George-street, is fully covered by insurances in various offices.

A meeting of persons interested in the cultivation and manufacture of sugar was held at the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon, and adjourned until this day week.

COMMERCIAL.

STOCK AND SHARE LISTS.

BARTON AND MELHADO.—Since the departure of the English mail the share market has been inactive. Bank shares are hardly so firm, and sales have taken place of Bank of New South Wales shares at a decline of 10s to 15s per share. Steam shares are unsaleable, except at a reduction on last quotations. Insurance shares are without alteration. Our sales are—Bank of New South Wales, £45 5s per share; City Bank, £10 5s per share; Queensland Government Treasury Bills, due in 1869, 107 and interest.—June 28th.

LENNON AND CAPE.—Business has been rather slack in our share market this week. The principal investments are confined to bank shares and debenture stocks, and the market is getting bare of these securities. Our sales have been in—Bank New South Wales, £46; Commercial Bank, £56; City Bank, £10 5s; United Fire and Marine Insurance Co., 15s; Peak Downs Copper Co., 19s 6d to £1. Debentures: New South Wales Government 5 per cent., due 1896, 88 ex interest; ditto interminables, 86 ditto.—June 28th.

J. MULLENS.—The share market has been dull this week, and sales have been only for moderate amounts. The recent calamities by flood have caused depression in the market, and prices are not so firm as they were. My sales this week have been—Australian Joint Stock Bank shares, at £13; Bank of New South Wales shares, at £46; City Bank shares, at £10 5s; Australasian Steam shares, at £10 5s; Peak Downs Copper shares, at £1; New Zealand Government Debentures, due 31st December, 1867, at 101 and interest.—June 28th.

W. CHATFIELD.—This has been a quiet week in the share market. There is little demand for Commercial Bank shares now offering at £56. Bank of New South Wales shares have submitted to a reduction of £1 per share, having been sold at £45 5s and £45. Joint Stock and City Bank shares are without change. Steam shares are flat; small parcels of Australasian have been quitted at £10 2s 6d. In insurance and mining stock there is nothing doing. My sales have been—Bank of New South Wales shares at £45. Joint Stock Bank shares at £13, Australasian Steam at £10 2s 6d.—June 28th.

PRODUCE CIRCULARS.

MORT AND CO.—Wool: Considerable dulness characterised the sales yesterday, and prices obtained show a downward tendency; the result of our sales is given at foot. Sheepskins were more freely taken, at rather better prices than those ruling last week. We quitted upwards of 10,000, at from 3½d to 6½d, according to quantity of wool. Tallow: Prices hardly so firm, the trade being the only buyers. Our sales are detailed below. Hides: Only good sound parcels command much attention, and for this description about late rates have been maintained. Our catalogue comprised chiefly light to medium weights, and were taken at prices as annexed. Bark: One lot of chopped sold at £3 15s per ton.—Produce Sale.—Wool: Handwashed, WPS, 1 bale at 7d; ditto, K&B, 1 at 8½d; fleece, JA, 36 at 17d; ditto, JT over Bondi, 54 at 17d; handwashed, ditto, 1 at 15½d; locks, ditto, 2 at 9d; fleece, with all faults, ditto, 2 at 15½d; mixed, 1 and 1 bag at 4d; black and broken, C&M, 2 at 9½d; fleece, with all faults, MK over 8, 7½ at 9½d; pieces, MLR, 1 at 9½d; handwashed, 1 at 7½d. Sheepskins: A, 2 bundles at 3½d, 3 ditto at 3½d; gB, 5 ditto at 4½d, 12 ditto at 4½d; R and C, 3 ditto at 6½d, 1 lot at 4½d; N, 1 bale at 5½d; Yenda, 4 bundles at 5½d; DHB, 5 ditto at 5½d, 16 ditto at 4½d; S, 2 ditto at 5½d; W, 1 ditto at 6½d, 1 lot at 3½d, 1 ditto at 3d. IRWIN AND TURNER.—Wool: The transactions in this market during the week have been unimportant. The parcels brought forward for the public sales consisted entirely of remnants of last season's clip. Prices obtained on the whole were satisfactory. Our catalogue was disposed of as follows:—Locks and pieces, C over PC over Q in diamond, 1 at 6½d; greasy, lambs, Beveridge over Narraburra, 1 at 5½d; ditto ditto damaged, 1 at 8d; skin wool, 1 at 11½d; fleece, Kilmorey over D&L, 13 at 15½d; ditto ditto damaged, 4 at 14½d; ditto ditto ditto, 1 at 12½d; greasy, TT, 16 at 7d; ditto ditto, damaged, 19 at 6½d; fleece, ditto, 8 at 15d; ditto ditto, damaged, 7 at 14d; greasy, JK conjoined, 12 at 8d; locks and pieces, Kilmorey over D&L, 1 at 7½d; greasy, GNG, 3 at 6½d; locks and pieces, ditto, 4 at 4½d; ditto and black wool, ditto, 1 at 5½d per lb. Sheepskins: The lots offering are generally short-woolled and low-conditioned. Prices thus: D in diamond, 4 bundles at 8d per lb. Tallow: We have no alterations to report on the quotations of last week, as there is nothing doing for shipment. The town trade were the only purchasers in the market. Prices ranged as follows:—Beef, £33 to £36; mutton, £38 10s to £39 15s; station £33 to £33. Sale resulted thus: JP, 2 casks beef, at 33s 9d; W, 2 at 36s; F, 2 at 32s 9d; LXS, 3 at 33s 6d; GW&Co, 10 at 33s 6d; F, 6 at 32s 6d; PC, 6 at 34s; J, 2 at 35s; MW, 2 at 32s 6d; M, 4 at 33s 9d; E, 2 at 38s 6d; C, 2 at 38s 9d; JM, 6 at 33s 6d; B, 1 station at 30s 9d; H, 2 beef at 33s; Foxlow, 1 station at 38s 3d; D, 1 ditto at 32s; WH, 1 beef at 33s; T, 1 at 33s; RG, 1 mutton at 39s 9d per cwt.; Hides: The market is quiet, and the transactions are limited to the requirements of the town trade, with a few small orders for the neighbouring colonies; beyond this there is little doing. The only parcels of heavy on our catalogue worthy of note were taken as follows:—24 at 14s 3d, 30 at 16s 6d, 17 at 16s 3d. Prices throughout ranged thus: 16 at 4s 9d, 12 at 8s, 79 at 6s; JP & Co., 24 at 14s 3d, 9 at 10s 6d, 1 at 2s 9d, 77 at 9s; WP, 30 at 16s 6d; JP, 17 at 16s 3d, 15 at 11s 9d; 8 under —, 30 at 15s 9d, 17 yearlings at 8s 3d, 15 hides at 12s 6d, 17 at 8s 3d, 23 calfskins at 3s each.—June 28th.

BREWSTER AND TREBECK.—Stations: We have little to report during the past week; for, although we have negotiations pending for some two or three properties at satisfactory prices, at a very advanced stage, we cannot report sales absolutely concluded at present, certain matters of detail having yet to be arranged. Store Cattle: There is a fair demand for lots suitable for the southern markets. Owing, however, to the difficulty of mustering, we expect but little business will be done until the spring sets in. Store Sheep: We have no sales to report. Ewes and mixed lots are but seldom inquired for, and most of the large lots of wethers in our hands have been withdrawn until after shearing. We are, however, still in a position to offer one or two large lots for immediate delivery in Queensland, at prices varying from 7s to 7s 6d per head, with liberal terms.—June 27th.

HARRISON AND JONES.—Stations: We are unable to add anything to our remarks of last week under this head; we would, however, call the attention of intending purchasers to our sale on Wednesday next, of the Newstead and Cardowan stations, Queensland, with 14,500 sheep, which is for unreserved sale. Fat Cattle: Owing to the severe floods round Sydney, but few lots have been brought into the market, rendering it difficult to quote prices. Prime heavy bullocks are worth £6 10s to £8, medium quality £5 10s to £6 10s. Fat Sheep: The floods, as above-mentioned, have also prevented any outside sheep coming into the markets; those offered during the week having been on this side of the rivers before they came down. Prices remain about the same as last week. Prime wethers 11s 6d to 13s 6d; middling and inferior, 8s 6d to 11s 6d. Store Cattle: We have nothing to add to our last remarks, as we retain our last week's figures, viz., for deliveries made southward, 55s to 65s; northern deliveries, 30s to 45s. Store Sheep: Sales of this description of stock very difficult to effect, and prices nominal. Wethers, 6s to 7s 6d; maiden ewes, 12s 6d to [illegible]; breeding ewes, 8s to 12s. Our sales for the week, 4200 wethers, Wagga Wagga.—June 28th.

THOMAS DAWSON.—Fat Cattle: The supply for immediate use is small, the floods having detained many mobs close at hand. Primest beef is worth about 20s per 100 lbs. Fat Sheep: Although the market is well supplied, the floods have kept so many flocks back that an advance of 1s per head can be obtained over last week's prices, but there are plenty to arrive when the weather improves. I sold 1400 of Mrs. Anderson's sheep at 10s this week, for which I could not get an offer of 9s last week. The flocks arriving are principally of inferior quality, and frightfully cut up by the weather. Store Sheep: Nothing doing. Store Cattle: There are some inquiries for good mobs. I could place some readily at prices rather better than late quotations. Horses: No sale.—June 28th.

G. M. PITT.—Fat Cattle: This market is bare; several lots have been delayed by floods that would otherwise have been in. Prices have advanced a little in consequence. I quote best bullocks worth £7, best cows at £6, second quality from £4 10s to £5 5s. My sales have been—195 head of Dight's at £4 8, 100 Sullivan's at £4 11s, and 214 Sullivan's at £6 10s 6d. 80 Sibley's at £4 16s, and 15 Cull's at £2 5s. Fat Sheep: The recent glut nearly over. Any prime would command fair rates, say best wethers 13s, second quality from 10s to 11s, middling a little over store rates. My sales have been—1900 Hill, Brothers, at 9 3d, very middling quality; 1500 Seivel's at 13s 6d, and 1535 at 9s 6d.—June 28th.

BURT AND CO.—Fat cattle and sheep, through the flooded state of the rivers, only a very short supply to hand, and but few sales have been made. Prices have, under these circumstances, advanced; but it is impossible to give anything like reliable quotations. We anticipate a short supply and fair rates throughout the winter for both cattle and sheep of prime quality. Horses: Market worse supplied than ever, the few offering being of a very inferior class. We have sold a few first-class horses this week, at prices ranging from £20 to £50; other horses £3 and upwards.—June 28th.

MARTYN AND CO.—Horses: There has been scarcely any but light and inferior stock offered this week, for which the demand is rather limited. Prices are unaltered. Lambs and Calves: Prices have ranged as follows:—Lambs from 8s 9d to 13s 9d, and calves from 10s to 37s.—June 28th.

ELLIS AND BUTLER.—Railway Auction Produce Depot, 763, George-street South.—List of prices obtained during the past week, for live stock and produce:—Bacon, 3½d to 8d per lb.; butter (roll) 1s 1d to 1s 6½d, (keg) 9½d to 1s 4d per lb.; barley (English) 3s to 3s 6d, (Cape) 2s 6d to 3s, per bushel; beeswax, 1s to 1s 2d per lb.; bran, 1s per bushel; cheese (colonial), 4d to 4½d per lb.; calves, 9s to £3 each; cows (milch) £4 to £9 each; ducks, 4s 8d per pair; eggs, 1s 2½d to 1s 5½d per dozen; fowls, 2s 10d to 4s per pair; geese, 6s 9d to 8s 3d per pair; hay (oaten) 4s 6d to 6s 6d per cwt.; lambs, 7s 6d to 15s each; maize, 2s 6d to 3s per bushel; oats, 2s to 3s 6d ditto; onions, 5s to 7s per cwt.; pigs (fat) 15s 6d to £3 10s, (sucking) 3s 3d to 7s 9d each; (dead) 3½d to 5½d per lb.; potatoes, 4s 3d to 4s 6d per cwt.; straw, 3s 9d to 4s 3d per cwt.; turkeys, 8s 6d to 15s 9d per pair; tallow, £1 11s to £1 14s 6d per cwt.; oranges, 3s to 5s per case; lemons, 3s 9d to 7s 9d per case.—June 28th.—ADV.

INGLIS AND DUNN'S prices of farm and dairy produce, obtained during the week at the Railway Auction Mart, 793, George-street South.—Maize 2s 3d to 3s 6d, oats 3s per bushel; hay (oaten) £4 10s to £8, (lucerne) £3 10s to £4 10s, straw £3 5s to £4 15s, potatoes £3 10s to £4 5s, per ton; cheese 5d to 7½d, butter (roll) 13d to 16d, ditto (keg) 9d to 15d, bacon 4½d to 7½d, lard 7½d to 9d, per lb.; eggs 14d to 15½d per dozen; turkeys 8s 6d to 20s, geese 7s to 9s, ducks 4s 6d to 6s 3d, fowls 3s to 5s 6d, per pair; milch cows £5 to £10, calves 13s to 39s, sheep 10s to 13s, lambs 8s to 10s, pigs (live) 14s to 55s, each—ditto (dead) 4d to 5d per lb.; suckers, 4s to 5s each; hides, 7s to 9s each; sheepskins, 6d per lb; tallow, 33s 6d per cwt.—June 28th.—ADV.

SYDNEY LABOUR MARKET.

W. BROWN.—The late tempestuous weather and disastrous floods have depressed the labour market, temporarily suspending garden and agricultural operations and limiting the demand for men requiring out-door employment. The daily attendance of male and female servants of most descriptions is amply sufficient for immediate requirements for town and country. Rates of wages have undergone no material change.—June 28th.

THE PRESENT POSITION AND POLICY OF THE FRENCH EMPIRE.

(From the Liverpool Albion.)

THE first of April has come and gone, the Paris Exhibition has been opened, and the anticipated announcement of the acquisition of Luxemburg by France has not been made. The transactions, as between the King of the Netherlands and the Emperor of the French, was referred to by the semi-official journals of Paris as an accomplished fact; but Prussian troops hold the fortress of Luxemburg, the King of Prussia and Count Von Bismarck have both declared that they would never be parties to the cession of a single village of Germany to foreigners, the Prussian Minister intimated plainly that the assent of his Government could not be given in opposition to the will of the German people, and, as a consequence, the eastern frontier of France remains unaltered. Lord Stanley stated on Friday, in replying to Sir Robert Peel, that the Dutch Minister had informed him, on the previous day, that the negotiations between the Hague and Tuilleries had been broken off; and, though Saturday's telegrams from Paris state that the Emperor of the French considers that the engagements entered into by the King of the Netherlands are too binding for him to withdraw without the consent of France, it is obvious that such consent will not be withheld, unless the Emperor is prepared for war with Germany. It may not be easy to forecast the events to which this second diplomatic repulse of Napoleon III. in his hankering after German territory may lead, but his present position with reference both to the French people and to foreign Powers is eminently suggestive. The system established by him fifteen years ago has already lasted for a term beyond the average of the dynasties or systems that have existed since the great convulsions of the last century, and the edifice of 1852 remains uncrowned, his schemes for the remoulding of neighbouring territories unrealised. Impelled by the exigencies of his position to adopt certain courses at home and abroad, he has shrank from their completion, and must begin to understand that the only policy which will stand the test of time is based upon the unchanged principle of justice. Baffled in Italy, in Mexico, in Germany, with commerce languishing, the Opposition growing in audacity, and everybody looking anxiously for what will come next, his perplexity as to what it shall be is only equalled by his conviction that he must do something. Financial embarrassment and internal discontent constitute at once the source of the perplexity and the necessity of action, and advancing years and failing health admonish him that procrastination may be as fatal as non-success.

The new scheme of military organisation, against which the nation is now protesting, leaves no doubt as to the course upon which the Emperor has determined. He has probably convinced himself that he has more to hope for from a successful emulation of the military successes of his uncle than from the capping of the constitutional edifice. It is easy to understand the influence of the successive failures of his foreign policy in forcing him upon this conclusion. He shrank in 1859 from the completion of his programme of "Italy free from the Alps to the Adriatic," lest Austria, broken by a revolt in Hungary, should become thereafter the tool of Russia in the East, and Prussia be left without a counterpoise in Germany; and now he sees Austria, broken at Sadowa excluded from Germany, her foreign affairs directed by a Minister whom the Prague journals accuse of paying his Saxon debts with Russian gold, and the Italy he would have made dependant upon France the ally of Prussia. But upon what flies is the military glory of this century to be won by French legions? Will he try their strength against united Germany? The forces of which Prussia since the recent annexations, the formation of the North German Union, and the treaties with Bavaria, Wurtemburg, and Baden, has the disposal are equal to those of France; and it is probable that the first shot in such a war would be the signal for Austria to declare herself on the side of Germany, and for Italy to join the alliance, in the hope of recovering Savoy and Nice. It is from her German territories that Austria derives what power of cohesion remains to her, and it would be, therefore, a necessity of her existence that she should recognise the instinct and the impulse that would enlist the sympathies of her German population on the side of their compatriots, in the event of a war for the preservation of Germany for the Germans. She could not neglect to do so without endangering the existence of the tie which binds the Austrians to the House of Hapsburg, and the severance of which would seal her dissolution.

Or is it against Russia that France is to be armed? It would certainly be not those two Powers, but Russia and Prussia, that would jointly dominate Europe, as the Emperor Alexander suggested to Napoleon on the raft on the Niemen, in the event of Russia ruling at Constantinople, either directly or through Greek or Sclave pro-consuls. Such a conviction must have dawned upon the Emperor's mind since the battle of Sadowa, and more especially since the publication of the Treaties of Alliance between the Russ and the South German States. A war with Russia would not result in any acquisition of territory to France; but schemes of aggrandisement must be abandoned under any circumstances; and in such a war there would be, at least, prestige to be obtained, political as well as military, and it is that that France, in the view of her Emperor, stands much in need. But here, again, she would be met by a formidable combination. War in the East would commence either with revolt in Servia against the sovereignty of the Sultan, or by an intervention of one or more of the great Powers. If it Russia's play to afford no pretext for the revival against her of the alliance of 1854, and, unless some other Power preferred, she would not cross the Pruth while her work was being done by the Servians and Roumans. France would be obliged, therefore, either to let events take their course, or to intervene for the maintenance of the Sultan's authority, on the one hand, or of the "right of insurrection" on the part of the Christian races, on the other. If she took part with the latter, she would be simply doing the work of Russia, and affording that Power the desired pretext for intervening in the East without being the first to do so; if with the former, she would place herself in antagonism, not merely to Russia, but also to Prussia, whose interest in the Eastern question dates from the revolution which removed Prince Couza from the hospodarship of Roumania, and substituted Charles of Hohenzollern; to Greece, whose, hopes of enlarging her limits would be frustrated; and to Servia, Roumania, and Montenegro, whose aspirations to independence her interference would crush. It may be that Prussia's part in such a war would be confined to occupying the attention of Austria, in the event of that power forming a tardy resolution to support Turkey; but, on the other hand, it is doubtful whether France would declare herself the champion of the Sultan without being sure of Austria's alliance with her. Such an alliance does not seem very probable. Austria has been placed, by the results of Sadowa, in the position of being bound to keep the peace. Her alliance with France against Prussia would create as much disaffection among her German population as intervention in Turkey, on behalf of the Sultan, would among the Kaiser's Rouman and Servian subjects, in the frontier districts. It seems, therefore, that France cannot move in this question without bringing about a general European war, and that the wisest thing Napoleon can do would be to acknowledge that Gortschakoff and Bismark have been too much for him, and abandon whatever projects of territorial aggrandisement, or intervention abroad he may entertain, as the sure roads to the ruin which overtook the first empire.

MARRICKVILLE MUNICIPALITY.—The usual fortnightly meeting of the council took place at 7 p.m. on the 25th instant. Present—the chairman (Mr. S. Pawley), and full council. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The following correspondence was then read: from Mr. C. St. Julian, complaining of the state of portion of the Illawarra Road between the Marrickville Road and his gate; from Mr. Paling, respecting the dangerous state of the portion of the Stanmore Road near his gate; and from Mr. E. Curtis, complaining of the state of the portion of the Addison Road in front of his property. To the above communications, the clerk was directed to send suitable replies. A petition was then read from certain ratepayers, requesting that the upper portion of the Addison Road be properly formed and opened. The petition was received, and referred to the improvement committee for their report. It was then proposed by councillor Halligan, and seconded by councillor Cook, and carried, "That the usual fortnightly meeting of the council in future be held on Mondays at 7 p.m., instead of Tuesdays, as heretofore." It was proposed by councillor Cook, seconded by councillor Halligan, and carried, "That no motion involving an expenditure of the money of the council will be entertained unless it be accompanied by an estimate of the cost of the works or improvements proposed in such motion." The council then resolved itself into a committee of the whole for the purpose of voting certain moneys for salary and contingencies. The council having resumed, the same was adopted. Notices of motions were then handed in by councillors Kingsbury, Halligan, and Hodges. Mr. Amner also gave notice of his intention to move, at the next meeting, "That summonses be at once issued against all persons whose rates are in arrear." The report of the finance committee, recommending payment of sundry accounts, was then brought up, adopted, and payment authorised. The council then rose.

FIRE AT DENISON HOUSE, GEORGE-STREET.

ANOTHER disastrous fire has to be recorded as having occurred in Sydney. This time the scene of the conflagration was the extensive and well-known drapery establishment of Messrs. John Thompson and Francis Giles, situated in George-street, immediately opposite Wynyard-street. It was about 5 o'clock yesterday evening when the alarm was first given, and as there is generally a great number of people about the streets at that hour, a large crowd of persons quickly assembled. The fire first broke out in the window at the north side of the drapery shop, in which were displayed a great number of very expensive articles, consisting of silks, muslins, and other goods of a costly nature. The origin of the fire is, almost as a matter of course, a mystery, but the general impression appears to be that it originated either from an escape of gas, before the burners (which form a sunlight at the top of the window) were lighted, or else by the accidental dropping of a piece of lighted paper by the person who lit the gas. This, however, is merely conjecture, as the fire had evidently been burning a few minutes before it was noticed. The goods in the window being of a very light and inflammable material, the flames quickly spread themselves in all directions. The whole of the goods contained in the windows were speedily reduced to ashes, and the whole of the front portion of the shop was in flames in a few minutes. One of the first persons to notice the fire from the street was Mr George Lane, a member of the No. 2 Volunteer Fire Company, who fortunately happened to be passing close by the shop at the moment. Seeing that it would be useless to attempt extinguishing the fire without water, he lost no time in fetching the hydrant apparatus which is kept at Mr. W. Camb's, at the corner of Pitt and King streets. Mr. Camb and several others of the Volunteer Company returned with him in all haste to the fire, and having connected the hose with the watermain in George-street, Lane entered the shop and commenced throwing the water on those portions of the building where the fire had obtained the greatest hold. By this time, however, the flames had extended to a considerable portion of the whole building; but when the water was once directed on to the fire the flames were speedily subdued and their progress stayed. The hydrant kept at the Bank of New South Wales, and also that kept at the Commercial Bank, were brought out and got into working order almost as soon as the Volunteer Company's hydrant, and by their means good and effective service was rendered; some of the bank clerks themselves working at the hose. The Fire Insurance Brigade, too, was very promptly on the spot, but so many of the plugs were taken up by the banks and volunteer hydrants that they had no chance left them in this respect, but they did good service notwithstanding, in rendering all the assistance they could to the others, and in saving as many goods from destruction as possible. His Worship the Mayor was at the Town Hall at the time the alarm was given, and on hearing of the fire he went down at once with a number of Corporation men, whom he set actively to work, clearing the street in the neighbourhood of the fire, and preserving order. A number of the police, too, were present, and very fortunately so, for several people seemed to be impressed with an idea that whatever they could get hold of would become at once their own property; and more than one person was apprehended in the act of removing goods in this manner. Within half an hour from the time the fire first commenced it was completely got under, and all cause for apprehension was set at rest. When making a more minute inspection, however, Mr. Bown discovered that there was still some fire burning in one of the walls of the upper portion of the building. He immediately set to work, and cut the burning portion away. The building appears to be constructed in the slightest manner, the walls being of the flimsiest description. The ceiling is lined with canvas, and this, together with the goods which were hanging loosely about the shop, assisted greatly towards the speedy spreading of the flames. A great deal of the shelving has been destroyed; several of the large sheets of plate-glass which formed the windows have also been cracked to pieces with the heat. The greatest amount of damage will be occasioned by smoke and water, although there does not appear to have been more water used than was absolutely necessary. And then even an approximate estimate of the loss occasioned can scarcely be formed until the stock has been gone through; but it is the opinion of several persons competent to judge on such matters that the loss will not be short of £6000 or £7000. Had such promptness and prudence not have been displayed by the firemen and others, it is hardly any telling where the fire would have stopped, as the shops adjoining on the south side are not very well adapted for resisting fire; and it is more than probable that great destruction would have been done to Messrs. Pr... Ogg, and Co.'s establishment which adjoins Denison House on the north. The No. 2 Volunteer Company's steam engine, a manual engine of the Insurance Brigade, and also a manual engine in charge of the No. 1 Volunteer Company were on the spot, and in readiness for active service at a moment. The Insurance Brigade steam fire-engine was also in readiness to start at a moment's notice. But none of them were required, the fire being entirely extinguished by means of the street hydrants. The building itself is the property of Mr. Perkins, of Balmain, and is insured; the stock is the property of Messrs. John Thompson and Francis Giles, and is insured in several offices.

SUGAR GROWING AND MANUFACTURE IN NEW SOUTH WALES.

A MEETING of gentlemen interested in the promotion of sugar growing in this colony met at the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Forster, M.L.A., on being called to the chair, said that he fully concurred in the object of the meeting, and, as a cane-grower and also as the representative of the district of the Hastings (which was peculiarly adapted for the cultivation of sugar), he would be glad to assist in establishing its manufacture as a permanent industry. He read the following letter from a gentleman who had taken a great interest in the movement which the meeting was intended to carry out:—

Burwood, 26th June, 1867.

My dear Sir,—Severe illness prevents me from attending the meeting to be held this day for the encouragement of sugar-growing.

I have spent considerably in money and time for this purpose, and published a 2s. 6d. handbook for the guidance of cane-growers and makers of sugar.

I have a sugar plantation at Port Macquarie with cane fast maturing, and feel anxious to encourage this important and money-making industry in this colony, in any way I can, as I consider the river lands on the Hastings, and all parts north of it within the colony, as better adapted to the cultivation of sugar cane than Queensland and other places in Australia.

I am, my dear Sir, yours truly,
FREDERICK A. BELL.

W. Forster, Esq., M.L.A., &c., &c.

Mr. W. H. DELOITTE, in moving as the first resolution, "That this meeting is of opinion that it is desirable to form a company for the manufacture of sugar, in the first instance of concrete, by the construction of a mill and other plant in the district of Port Macquarie, and the importation of the necessary machinery," stated that the establishment of the company was not intended with the view of benefiting any one in particular, but with the bona fide object of fostering the industry. The promoters would gratuitously devote their energies to ensure its success but in the event of doing so would expect to share therein to the extent of a dividend on the reserved shares. The prospectus proposed the formation of a company having a capital of £10,000, in 5000 shares of £2 each, for the purpose of erecting at Port Macquarie a sugar mill and concreter, the purchase of cane and imphee from the growers, and the manufacture and sale of concrete sugar. The northern rivers of the colony being admirably adapted for growing sugar-cane and imphee, the farmers there were anxious to secure a market for their produce. From 60 to 70 acres of cane and imphee are now growing at Port Macquarie, and would be available for manufacture in December next; so that it would be necessary to procure the machinery at once, and thus pay a dividend in January next. If the farmers were assured that the machinery was secured, there would be from 300 to 500 acres of cane planted at the close of this year. It was not considered advisable at present to incur the large outlay requisite to form a plantation and manufacture sugar. A machine best adapted for the purposes of the company was the "Concreter," invented by Mr. Fryer, of the Manchester Refining Company. It was designed to save the loss always occasioned by a large portion of the saccharine matter in the cane being lost in the form of molasses, as the "Concreter" turned the whole of the saccharine matter into a solid concrete, leaving no molasses. Mr. Holland, who resides at Port Macquarie, and thoroughly understood the growth and manufacture of sugar, expressed his willingness to superintend and assist the operations of the company. The gentleman had tested Clarence River grown sugar, and found its strength to be from 10 to 14 Beaume. After careful consideration it was estimated that a first-class sugar mill with 25 h.p. engine erected on the Hastings would cost

...	£1500
Cost of concreter ready for work	1500
Land, say 50 acres	250
Two punts, to convey cane to mill	300
	£3550

Cost of manufacture, say 60 acres of cane now growing, averaging 30 tons per acre, at 10s.	£900
Preliminary expenses, deed, &c.	150
Engineer and five men for three months	105
Wages of punts, freight, fuel, and insurance	230
Contingencies	300
	£1685

... acres of cane would yield at least 180 tons of concrete, which at £20 per ton would realise £3600, from which, after deducting the cost of cane, &c. (£1685), there would be a profit on this year's crop of £1915. If, as was promised, 300 acres of cane were ready by next season, averaging 30 tons per acre, purchasable at 10s. per ton, would involve an outlay of

an outlay of	£4500
Manufacture, &c.	660
Freight of concrete to Sydney	225
Contingencies, say	500
In all, say	£5885

From this there would be at least 900 tons of concrete, at £20, £18,000, leaving a balance on crop of £12,115.

It was thought that these figures were well within the mark, and the Colonial Sugar Company guaranteed to purchase the concrete at the price named in the estimate. The ... obtained from the concreter had been fully proved in the island of Antigua.

The resolution having been seconded by Mr. MELMOTH ..., a conversation took place as to the advisability of adjourning the meeting to a future day, and of obtaining a larger attendance.

The CHAIRMAN said it was competent for any gentleman to move an amendment to that effect.

Mr. JOUBERT said that, after hearing Mr. Deloitte's statement, he thought it would be advisable to adjourn the meeting. The advertisement did not exactly state the object of the present meeting, which seemed rather to be for the purpose of forming a company to purchase and work a new and improved mill. He had considerable experience in sugar, the consumption of which in this colony was about 400 tons per week, every ton of which bore an expense on original cost of fully £10. The whole of this might be saved by supplying our own wants. A mill had been constructed in this city for his brother, who resided in New Caledonia, and sugar made by it brought in this market £30, and next year still better results were expected. The whole of this colony was available for the production of sugar. The Clarence and Hastings districts would produce sugar cane to compete with Mauritius and Bourbon, and from the Hastings southward to Bass Straits hundreds of thousands of acres would produce beetroot—the greatest enemy of the sugar planters. Since 1841, when the export of wool was our only trade, hundreds of industries had been successfully established—why not the production of sugar? He would heartily join in aiding such an object, but he considered it inadvisable to be bound to use one particular class of machinery when other descriptions might better suit the purpose. He moved, as an amendment, "That the meeting be adjourned until 4 p.m. on Friday next."

Mr. NEILD, who seconded the amendment, gave some information respecting the cultivation of sugar cane at Port Macquarie; after some remarks from Mr. M. HALL and Mr. H. READ the amendment was carried.

A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the proceedings.

HARBOUR WORKS AT WOLLONGONG.—The body of water accumulated during the recent heavy weather is still at a depth of some four feet notwithstanding the continuous exertions of the pumps. On Saturday morning it was discovered that the coffer dam was leaking very heavily at the end nearest the Brighton Hotel, a body of men were promptly set to work, and the damage is now all but repaired. Otherwise there was no indication of any weakness manifested. When we calculate the immense strain there was on it during the gale last week, we got off very easily, and the recent severe tests proves it to be a master piece of workmanship. At times during the gale when the huge rollers dashed with such unremitting fury into the basin, we, in conjunction with many others, entertained serious fears that the long thin line of wood and stone would succumb to their violence, however the sea has again resumed its placidity, and we hope in the course of a few days to hear the busy hum of voices and the unceasing clash of implements proclaiming the resumption of the work of excavation with its former spirit and success.—Illawarra Mercury.

SYDNEY INFIRMARY.

SUPPER AND TESTIMONIAL.

On the resignation of Mrs. BLAKE as Matron of the Sydney Infirmary, the employés of that institution, desirous of testifying their respect and esteem towards that lady previous to her departure from amongst them, entertained her to a farewell supper on Saturday evening, 22nd June, at 8 o'clock, when they presented her with a handsome gold brooch, bearing the following inscription:—"Presented to Mrs. Ellen Blake, Matron of the Sydney Infirmary, by the Employés of that institution, 22nd June, 1867;" when the following Address was read and presented by Mr Copeland Bennett, on behalf of the officers and employees of that institution:—

"Sydney, June 22nd, 1867.

"Madam,—As you are on the eve of leaving us, we felt that we could not allow you to do so without showing you some slight token of our respect and esteem towards you; hence this supper, which we have so much enjoyed, and your presence with us on this occasion.

"We all, you may depend, feel proud in being able to serve under one who has always claimed our highest respect and esteem. There is no doubt in our minds that the step you are about to take has been marked out by Divine Providence, and trust that you may have health and strength to enjoy it for a lengthened period. We must acknowledge that we anticipated a much longer stay from you, but we hope 'it's all for the best.' May you ever cherish the thought that those who served under you in the Sydney Infirmary respected you in the truest sense of the word; we shall ever cherish the thought though absent, that feeling of respect and goodwill which ever flowed within us, and though far apart it may be, our earnest prayer will be for your future welfare.

"May the sons you have, be abundantly blessed by the Almighty, and never forget the great command—'Honour thy father and mother, &c.,' and remember their Creator in the days of their youth; and prove a great blessing to you in old age.

"And now, we beg that you will accept this small present from us, as a mark of respect and esteem, and trust that you will be spared long to wear it and look on it with pride in years to come, even to old age, when it will call to mind the 22nd day of June, 1867.

"'FAREWELL.'

FAREWELL.

There is a word whose faintest tone
Can thrill the bosom and dispel
The brightest dreams the heart has known;
'Tis the wild word—"Farewell, Farewell."

If this dark world can boast a bliss,
'Tis when with kindred souls we dwell;
If there is a pang—'tis this—'tis this—
When friends thus meet must say "Farewell."

The sad and long neglected lute
Slumbers in silence, deep and long,
Till Zephyr fans the strings so mute,
And gives its wildest notes to song.

The heart's the lute, so hushed, so lone,
Friendship, instead of Zephyr's spell,
Awakes its fondest, sweetest tones,
Till comes that chilling word—"Farewell."

I am, Madam, yours respectfully,
COPELAND BENNETT,
on behalf of the employés of the Sydney Infirmary.

MR. W. J. CORDNER'S PIANO AND SINGING CLASSES.—Music being cultivated in the homes of all classes of society to a much greater extent in the present day than formerly, has caused a necessity to be felt for SOUND MUSICAL INSTRUCTION obtainable at a moderate rate.
Mr. Cordner, to meet this requirement, has imported the necessary music, procured instruments, and made every arrangement at his residence, 116, WOOLLOOMOOLOO-STREET, for the establishment of DAY and EVENING CLASSES for the study of the Piano and Singing.
The number of Pupils in each Piano Class will be limited to eight, and in the Vocal Classes to twelve, so that FAMILIES or a SMALL CIRCLE of FRIENDS may form a class of themselves alone, and study music specially adapted for their home circle.
The advantages obtained by a class of this description practising concerted music on a number of pianos at the same time, are, that the pupils acquire an INTIMATE KNOWLEDGE OF THEORY, FIRMNESS OF TOUCH, and STEADINESS IN TIME; qualities otherwise not so readily obtained.
The instruction imparted to the vocal classes will embrace the CULTIVATION OF THE VOICE as well as reading at sight.

Mete out M'Carroll's just reward,
And say to him alone they owe
The boon of having meat so low.
But then, M'Carroll, in reply,
Can plainly shew the reason why—
How he alone can rule the trade—
His strength is by the people made.
They recognise his constant aim;
Undeviating is the same;
How much he strives to serve the town,
By keeping all the prices down.
Then in return the people say,
"No empty praises let us pay,
It is but right we all should feel
In duty bound with him to deal,
And ask ourselves, was he away,
What fearful prices we should pay."

There could be no more favourable opportunity for any person desirous of investing in a REALLY FIRST-CLASS PASTORAL PROPERTY than that now presented by the sale of ANGELALA DOWNS. The country cannot be surpassed (if equalled) IN ALL AUSTRALIA, possessing grazing capabilities LARGELY IN EXCESS of the number of stock proposed to be offered with it, thereby leaving ample room for future increase for several years.

The central position of ANGELALA DOWNS presents an attraction to buyers of fat stock for the Melbourne, Adelaide, New South Wales, and Queensland markets which ought not to be overlooked, and this will become more marked as from year to year the stations in the settled districts become converted from pastoral into agricultural areas.

THIRTEEN suburban farms, close to Parramatta; five of them fronting the Toongabbee Creek, at its junction with the Parramatta River, within the boundary of the town, near the toll-bar on the Windsor Road. Eight of them have frontages to the Windsor Road, above and below Mr. Tamsett's orange orchard, on the opposite side of the main road.

LOT 1 contains 23 acres 1 rood, No. 5 A and D on the Government plan, directly opposite the junction of the Parramatta River with the Toongabbee Creek; bounded on the north partly by a Government reserve, and in part by a Government road. One of the boundary stones of the town is on this lot, three acres being within the town.

It is bounded on the south by a road, and also on the west by one leading from the Windsor Road.

LOT 5 fronts the Windsor Road between the bridge and Tamsett's, at the corner of road leading to the quarry branch of the Toongabbee Creek, contains 5 acres 3 roods 15 perches, marked FF No. 33, Government plan.

These farms were selected as suitable for orchards, some being on the high ground to ensure good drainage, others were chosen from their sheltered positions and supply of fresh water—all but three being bounded by the creek.

These blocks embrace an immense tract of magnificent open undulating country, occasionally broken by belts of lightly timbered box forest, and the runs abound with salt bush and other fattening herbage, and form altogether one of the finest, if not the best sheep station in the Leichhardt District, and the fact of having been first taken up by Mr. Kennedy the celebrated explorer, is a sufficient guarantee of the character of the country. In submitting this property to public competition, the auctioneers deem it superfluous to add anything, as they feel a station of such great extent and such magnificent pasturage, in addition to being so lightly stocked, must command attention.
